CALCUTTA, MAY 29, 1916

Final General Memorandum on the WHEAT Crop of 1915-16

This memorandum is based on the final reports on the wheat crop of the present season received from local authorities, and relates to 98·6 per cent of the total reported wheat acreage of India. The statistics, therefore, cover practically all the important wheat growing areas of India.

The total area is estimated at 30,143,000 acres as against 32,475,000 acres, the revised final area of last year, or a decrease of 7 per cent. The total yield is estimated at 8,518,000 tons (39,751,000 quarters of 480 lbs) as against 10,091,000* tons (47,091,000 quarters), the revised final estimate of last year, or a decrease of nearly 16 per cent.

The detailed figures are as follows :—

It will be seen that the present estimate of yield, as against the final figures of last year, shows a decrease of 60 per cent in Ajmer-Merwara, 48 per cent in Sind, 47 per cent in Rajputana, 36 per cent in the North-West Frontier Province, 33 per cent in the Punjab, 18 per cent in Bombay, and 11 per cent in the United Provinces. On the other hand, Bihar and Orissa shows an increase of 67 per cent, Hyderabad 47 per cent, Bengal and the Central Provinces and Berar 25 per cent each, and Central India 1 per cent.

In addition to the areas for which particulars are given above, the crop is grown in certain other tracts, (namely, Burma, Madras, Manpur Pargana, and the Kashmir State) for which no reports are made, and the average area so grown for the last five years has been about 400,000 acres. An addition of approximately 1·3 per cent or 100,000 tons should be made to the estimated total yield on this account.

The failure of the winter rains seriously affected the crop, particularly on unirrigated† areas in the Punjab, the North-West Frontier Province, Ajmer-Merwara, Rajputana, Sind, the western parts of the United Provinces, and the northern parts of the

† The unirrigated area under wheat is on an average about 50 per cent of the total wheat area in the Punjab, 54 per cent in the United Provinces, 74 per cent in the North-West Frontier Province, 46 per cent in Ajmer-Merwara, 13 per cent in Sind, and 86 per cent in the Bombay Presidency.

Bombay Presidency. In the Central Provinces and Berar, Bihar and Orissa, Hyderabad, Bengal, the Bombay Deccan, and in the eastern and southern parts of the United Provinces and of Central India, conditions of the crop have, on the whole, been favourable.

The provincial reports are summarised below :—

Punjab (32·5 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The combined area of British districts and Native States is now estimated at 10,256,000 acres as against 11,336,000 acres, the revised final area of last year, or a decrease of 9 per cent. The area sown in the British districts, it may be noted, is 9,000,000 acres, which is 9 per cent below the estimate of last year, and that in Native States 1,256,000 acres, which is about 12 per cent smaller than last year's area. The total estimated yield is 2,487,000 tons (314,000 tons being in Native States), which is 33 per cent below last year's revised figure. Light or moderate showers were received in the south-east and submontane tracts in the third week of February and were beneficial. Thereafter the weather cleared up and remained generally dry till the third week of March, when light but general rain again fell. This was beneficial to the standing crops, especially in parts of the Rawalpindi division, where the rainfall was good. The total winter rainfall, however, was quite insufficient for the maturing of the unirrigated crop, which suffered everywhere, especially in the south-eastern and south-western districts. Except for light showers in places, the month of April remained generally rainless, and this allowed the reaping of the crop to be completed without interruption. Threshing is in progress and, if the season continues favourable, the quality of the grain will be good. Except for some damage caused in parts of the south-east by strong westerly winds, the crop this year is generally free from disease, such as rust or smut, and is threshing out more satisfactorily than was anticipated. The grain is well filled. The failure of the winter rains has, however, affected the yield very adversely. On irrigated areas it is reported to be normal only in some central and western districts and below normal elsewhere, owing to insufficient water supply in canals, especially in the east of the province. On unirrigated areas the crop is poor generally, except in the south-east where it is bad.

United Provinces (23·3 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area under wheat is now reported to be 6,621,000 acres, as compared with 7,301,000 acres last year, or a decrease of 9 per cent. All the divisions except Jhansi show a decrease. The total yield is estimated at 2,713,000 tons, which is 11 per cent below the yield of last year. The long spell of dry weather up to the middle of February injured the unirrigated crop, particularly in the western districts. Rain was received in the third week of February, and, although of material value to the unirrigated crop, it came too late to ensure a good harvest. The irrigated crop has on the whole done well, although, owing to short supplies of water, it is below normal in parts of the canal irrigated tracts. In the western districts strong winds did considerable damage to the ripening crop. For the province as a whole the crop, irrespective of the area sown, is estimated at 90 per cent of the normal, compared with 85 per cent last year.

Central Provinces and Berar (11·6 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area sown is now estimated at 3,616,000 acres (3,100,000 acres in the Central Provinces, 397,000 acres in Berar, and 119,000 acres in the States of Khairagarh and Nandgaon), which is about 7 per cent above last year's estimate. The total yield is estimated at 973,000 tons (829,000 tons in the Central Provinces, 111,000 tons in Berar, and 33,000 tons in Khairagarh and Nandgaon), which is 25 per cent above that of last year. As described in the special forecast in April, climatic conditions were generally favourable for the crop, although some damage to the crop was done in places through cloudy weather, frost, hails, and rust. April passed practically rainless and facilitated harvesting, threshing, and winnowing of the crop all over the province. The districts of Buldana and Akola had an outturn of 112 and 110 per cent of a normal crop respectively. The estimated production in Seoni, Nimar, Nagpur, and Chanda ranges from 82 to 90 per cent, and in the remaining districts from 100 to 105 in American notation. For the province as a whole a normal (100) yield has been reaped.

Bombay (6·1 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area is estimated at 2,049,000 acres (including 544,000 acres in Native States) as against 2,253,000 acres last year, or a decrease of 9 per cent. The total yield is estimated at 496,000 tons (158,000 tons being in Native States), which is 18 per cent below that of last year. The crop in the Deccan and in Bijapur of the Karnatak has generally done well under favourable seasonal conditions, although it suffered somewhat through rust in parts of the Deccan. In the other districts of the Karnatak the crop was affected by rust induced by cloudy weather and adverse winds. In Gujarat the crop suffered from want of moisture and also in parts from frost.

Sind (1·6 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area is estimated at 571,000 acres (including 23,000 acres in Native States), which is 19 per cent below the area of last year. The total yield is estimated at 162,000 tons (8,000 tons being in Native States) as against 311,000 tons last year, or a decrease of 48 per cent. The crop suffered through deficiency of water supply, and to some extent from frost.

Bihar and Orissa (4·3 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area is estimated at 1,330,000 acres as against 1,218,000 acres last year, or an increase of 9 per cent. The total yield is estimated at 581,000 tons, which is 67 per cent above the yield of last year. The weather conditions were generally favourable. Some damage was, however, done to the crop in parts of Patna, Gaya, and Cuttack by excessive rain in November, and in Palamau by hailstorm in February. The crop has generally been good in Bihar except in the flooded tracts in parts of Tirhut; and the average outturn for the province as a whole is expected to be not less than normal.

North-West Frontier Province (3·4 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area sown is estimated at 859,000 acres as compared with 1,183,000 acres last year, or a decrease of 27 per cent. The total yield is estimated at 212,000 tons against 331,000 tons in the previous year, or a decrease of 36 per cent. The season was very unfavourable at sowing time owing to insufficient rains. November was practically a dry month and the rainfall in December and January was also disappointingly small. Good and general rain received in February greatly improved the condition of unirrigated crops, which were then withering. The rainfall in March was below normal but the nearly average rainfall of April proved beneficial and helped the crop to mature. In April hailstorms did some damage to crops in Bannu. The yield was average on irrigated lands except in parts of Dera Ismail Khan, and below average on unirrigated lands.

Bengal (0·5 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area sown is estimated at 134,000 acres, which is about the same as reported last year. The total yield is estimated at 40,000 tons as against 32,000 tons last year, or an increase of 25 per cent. The season up to the 3rd week of November, when good showers of rain fell and helped the growth of the crop, was regarded as generally satisfactory. After this the crop suffered considerably through drought. In the important district of Malda, however, a normal crop has been reaped. On the whole, the season, though not altogether favourable, was better than last year.

Delhi (0·1 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area is estimated at 28,000 acres against 32,000 acres last year, or a decrease of 12 per cent. The total yield of this year is estimated at 11,000 tons (no quantitative estimate of the yield for the previous season has been reported).

Ajmer-Merwara (0·1 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area is estimated at 12,000 acres, which is 37 per cent below last year's area. The total yield is estimated at 2,000 tons against 5,000 tons last year, or a decrease of 60 per cent.

Central India (8·8 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area is now estimated at 2,969,000 acres against 3,096,000 acres last year, or a decrease of 4 per cent. The total yield is estimated at 649,000 tons which is 1 per cent above last year's estimate. The details are as follows :—

The total yield is estimated at 116,000 tons, which is 47 per cent below last year's estimate. All the States except Partabgarh show a contraction in area, which is generally due to deficient rainfall. Detailed figures for the States are as follows :—

The total yield is estimated at 75,000 tons as against 51,000 tons last year, or an increase of 47 per cent. Agricultural conditions have been favourable.

Mysore (0·01 per cent of the total area under wheat in India).—The total area is estimated at 4,100 acres and the yield at 600 tons as against 3,700 acres and 600 tons last year.

It will be seen that, as compared with this time last year, freights from the United States Atlantic ports and from India (Karachi) have risen by 53 per cent, and those from the Argentine (River Plate) by 127 per cent.

Wheat crops in Foreign Countries.—The latest available information published by the International Institute of Agriculture, Rome, is as follows :—

In the Argentine the area and yield are estimated at 16,413,000 acres and 4,615,000 tons as against 15,465,000 acres and 4,503,000 tons in 1914-15. In Australia the estimates of area and yield are 11,495,000 acres and 3,822,000 tons as compared with 11,799,000 acres and 664,000 tons last year. The area sown this year with winter wheat in Canada is 1,100,000 acres against 1,293,000 acres in 1914-15, and that in France 12,435,000 acres as against 13,609,000 acres last year. In Spain 9,874,000 acres have been sown with winter wheat this year. From the monthly Crop Reports, issued by the Department of Agriculture, United States of America, it appears that the estimated area under winter wheat in the United States of America is 37,256,000 acres against 42,012,000 acres in 1914-15 and the estimated yield is about 14,464,000 tons as against 17,546,000 tons last season.

From unofficial sources it appears that in the United States of America there is a general concensus of opinion among the American crop experts that the decrease in the area under winter wheat this season is partly due to the unfavourable seeding time and partly to the large quantity abandoned owing to winter kill. There are continued complaints of a late season in the spring wheat region but it is reported that the seeding is making satisfactory progress and the crops are starting well. In Australia the rainfall has been abundant lately. Even if the acreage seeded up to the end of May be not quite so large as that of 1915, yet it is expected to be above the normal. In Russia the winter crop in the south is generally quite satisfactory and the crop promises to be above the average. The condition of the young plants is generally satisfactory. In France latest reports of the winter wheat crop are favourable and spring sowing has been progressing under good conditions; every effort is being made to seed as large an acreage as possible to make up for the deficit in the winter crops, but it is feared that, owing to shortage of labour, it will be impossible to put all available land under the crop. In Italy there are some complaints that the southern districts are suffering from lack of rain, otherwise the crop outlook is believed to be favourable. In the Argentine heavy rains are reported to have fallen in Buenos Ayres and a prolonged spell of wet weather would certainly be not advantageous for the seeding of the new wheat crop, the planting of which has recently been favoured with good weather.

No. 3968-34-W.-II.—The following list of articles, declared to be contraband of war is published for general information:—

List of Articles declared to be Contraband of War.

THE articles declared to be contraband of war in the Proclamations now in force have been arranged alphabetically in the accompanying list. It is hoped that this will be convenient to all parties concerned.

The list comprises the articles which have been declared to be absolute contraband as well as those which have been declared to be conditional contraband. The circumstances of the present war are so peculiar that His Majesty's Government consider that for practical purposes the distinction between the two classes of contraband has ceased to have any value. So large a proportion of the inhabitants of the enemy country are taking part, directly or indirectly in the war that no real distinction can now be drawn between the armed forces and the civilian population. Similarly, the enemy Government has taken control, by a series of decrees and orders of practically all the articles in the list of conditional contraband, so that they are now available for Government use. So long as those exceptional conditions continue our belligerent rights with respect to the two kinds of contraband are the same, and our treatment of them must be identical.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 27th May 1916.

Burma.—Good rain was general throughout the Province The principal falls reported were:—Myitkyina 8·80, Maubin 7 35 and Kyaukpyu 6 97 inches. Four other districts report falls exceeding 5 inches Agricultural operations for the main rice crop in Lower Burma and for upland crops in Upper Burma have commenced Cattle are generally healthy The price of unhusked rice at Rangoon has fallen to Rs 111 per hundred baskets which is normal The market for white rice is weak

Assam.- Moderate to heavy rain has fallen in all districts and has facilitated cultivation; but more rain is wanted in Habiganj and Maulvibazar sub-division of Sylhet. Sowing of autumn and winter rice and jute, plucking of tea and planting of sugarcane are in progress Insect pests did some damage to autumn rice in Sibsagar. Prospects of autumn rice are good and of tea fair to good Price of common rice has risen somewhat Cattle disease is reported in eight districts

Bengal.—During the week light to moderate rain was received in a number of places in the Province. Prospects of the standing crops have been somewhat improved and the agricultural operations have been facilitated to some extent in those parts where rain did fail but dry weather still prevails over large areas adversely affecting the growth of the young plants of sugarcane autumn paddy and jute and rendering the further sowing of autumn crops very difficult especially in Western Bengal where the operations are already late. Insects are reported to have caused some damage to autumn paddy in parts of the Dacca and Noakhali districts Cattle disease is reported from seven districts. Water scarcity continues in parts of the 24 Parganas, Murshidabad, Burdwan, Birbhum and Midnapore The price of common rice for the Province rose by 0·91 per cent as compared with that of the preceding week.

The weekly report on the famine and scarcity is as follows:—In the Bankura district the state of affairs in affected areas is generally unchanged The condition of people on works is generally good Relief measures are adequate People are freely resorting to works. Loans are being freely advanced Scarcity of fodder continues Private charitable funds are giving relief District charitable relief fund has distributed cloth. Prices have risen The price of rice is 8 seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 22.167 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 24,845—total 47,012. The number of persons relieved on private works was 6,993 In the Tippera district the drought has affected standing crops. The public health is good Relief measures are adequate The price of rice is 7 seers per rupee The number of persons on relief works was 3,875 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 4,791, total 8,666. The increase in the number on works is due to cessation of agricultural employment with completion of weeding and sowing operations.

Bihar and Orissa.—Light rain fell in Singhbhum and in the districts of the Orissa and Tirhut divisions except Saran. There was no rain in the rest of the Province. Planting of sugarcane continues Preparation of lands for autumn crops is going on but more rain is wanted for the purpose in some districts. Standing crops are generally doing well The average price of common rice has remained almost stationary as compared with that of the preceding week. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient except in parts of the Santhal Parganas, Hazaribagh and Palamau where water is reported to be insufficient. Cattle disease is reported from eleven districts The attendance of persons on test works in Manbhum was 3,069 and in Singhbhum 11,977. Gratuitous relief was given to 2,825 persons in Manbhum The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa is good.

Sowing of cotton, indigo, rice and charri is in progress. Harvesting of spring crops is practically over. Standing crops and sugarcane are in good condition. Scarcity of fodder is reported from Dehra Dun, Garhwal and Aligarh. Scarcity of pasture continues in Muttra. There is very little cattle disease and agricultural stock is in good condition. Markets are well stocked and supplies are ample. A slight rise in prices has set in.

Punjab.—Except for light showers in parts of the south-east the weather was dry. Threshing of wheat continues in a few districts with yield on irrigated areas below normal to normal and on unirrigated areas poor. Sowings of sugarcane, cotton and other autumn crops continue and are restricted in parts of the south-east and west and are normal elsewhere. The condition of standing extra spring and autumn crops is generally fair on irrigated and below average on unirrigated areas. Cattle are generally healthy but are weak in some districts owing to scarcity of fodder. Water for drinking and irrigation is generally sufficient but shortage of canal water is reported from the south-east. Prices are generally stationary and in case of wheat range generally between normal and warning rates and in other cases between warning and scarcity rates. Prices of wheat —Lahore and Rawalpindi 10¼, Ferozepore 11½, Ambala 11⅝, and Lyallpur 12½ seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—The week was rainless. The weather is hot and clear. Standing irrigated crops are average throughout the Province, but unirrigated crops in Dera Ismail Khan are reported to be poor. Harvesting of spring crops is in progress and the outturn is reported to be generally average. Sowings of autumn crops are proceeding. The condition of cattle is good except in unirrigated tracts of the Lakki tahsil of the Bannu district where it is bad. Fodder scarcity is reported from almost all States in Rajputana and from Ajmer-Merwara. Cattle are in very poor condition and are dying in some places. Cattle disease is also reported from Dungarpur, Banswara, Kotah and a few villages of Jhalawar and Mewar. Water is generally sufficient except in Marwar, Kotah, Jhalawar and Tonk. Prices are generally high with a slight tendency to rise. The number of persons on test works in Kishengarh was 4,591 and in Karauli 920.

The weekly report on scarcity in Merwara is as follows:—Distress is increasing among agriculturists and labourers. The physical condition of the workers is satisfactory but a few children on works show signs of emaciation. There is no wandering among people. Marwar emigrants with cattle are returning home via Merwara. Relief measures are adequate. Cash and grass advances are being distributed. The fodder supply is sufficient at present. Agricultural stock is generally in good condition except in places where there is cattle disease. The fodder supply is sufficient everywhere except in the Gwalior and Malwa divisions of the Gwalior State where there is scarcity of fodder and water. Prices are normal in Bhopal and Baghelkhand, falling in parts of Bundelkhand and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—The weather continues to be hot and occasionally cloudy. Light showers, nowhere exceeding 1¼ inches, were received all over the provinces. Threshing and winnowing of spring crops are completed. Ploughing of fields for the sowing of the ensuing season's crops is in full swing and the supply of fodder and water is sufficient. Agricultural stock is in good condition. Variations in prices are insignificant.

Feudatory States.—Five States received light rain. The land is being prepared for sowing of next autumn crops.

Bombay.—Rain fell during the week throughout the Presidency except in Gujrat and Baroda. Lands are being prepared for autumn cultivation. divided amongst applicants according to priority of application, subject to the acceptance in full of small applications not exceeding Rs. 5,000, and to proportionate distribution, as far as may be convenient, among applicants whose applications are presented on the first day on which the loan is over-subscribed.

Allotment Certificates.

9. To each applicant (or to his agent) whose application is accepted in whole or in part, such number of allotment certificates as may be necessary to make up the aggregate amount allotted to him will be issued as soon as possible after the 1st July and an alphabetical list of the names of those to whom such allotment certificates are issued will be posted for general information at the Head Offices of the Banks of Bengal, Madras and Bombay, and will also be communicated to the principal newspapers.

The allotment certificates will be issued by the Controller of Currency in the case of all applications presented to him or to the head office of the Bank of Bengal or its branches in Calcutta, and in other cases by the Accountant General or Comptroller concerned—including the Accountant General, Bengal, and the Comptroller, India Treasuries, in the case of applications presented at treasuries or branches of Presidency Banks within their accounts circle. Instalment III.—As near as convenient to 25 per cent., but not less than 25 per cent., payable on the 22nd August.

Instalment IV.—The balance payable on the 7th September.

But the whole or any part of any accepted application may be paid at any time after receipt of the allotment certificate.

The words "as near as convenient" refer to the necessity for making each instalment an exact multiple of Rs. 100.

11. Payment of any allotment certificate may be made in the Head Office of the Bank of Bengal, or Madras, or Bombay, or in any branch of these Banks in India or into any Government treasury at district head quarters which may be named in the application in respect of which the allotment certificate was issued. Receipts for such payments will be given by the Banks of Bengal, Madras and Bombay, or their branches, or by the officers in charge of the Government Treasuries at which payment is made, by enfacement upon the relative certificate.

12. When any allotment certificate is fully paid up, the holder will, on presenting it duly receipted at the place where it was paid, obtain from the Public Debt Office, Calcutta, either (a) a stock certificate, or (b) promissory notes of such values as he may desire (each note being in even hundreds and not less than Rs. 100), bearing interest from the 1st October 1916; he will also receive interest at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum up to the 30th September 1916, commencing from the date of presentation of the application in respect of the deposit made under clause 5, and from the actual dates of payment in respect of subsequent instalments.

Conversion of Securities of the existing 3½ and 3 per cent. rupee loans of the Government of India.

13. The holder of a fully paid up allotment certificate will further receive, on its presentation as above, a negotiable warrant in the form appended to this

Notification (Annexure 3) specifying the amount paid on the allotment certificate and entitling the holder of the warrant to the privilege of converting 3½ per cent. or 3 per cent. rupee securities of the Government of India into securities of the Four per cent. Conversion Loan of 1916-17 to the extent, and under the conditions, defined below, provided that application for such conversion is made by the holder of the warrant not later than the 16th January 1917.

(1) The amount of securities in the loan of 1916-17 obtained by such conversion may be any exact multiple of Rs. 100 not exceeding the sum specified in the warrant as having been paid on the allotment certificate.

Examples.—(a) A has subscribed Rs. 10,000 to the new loan. He will receive a conversion warrant for Rs. 10,000. This will enable him, if he chooses, to tender for conversion as much 3½ per cent. paper or 3 per cent. paper as [at the rates of conversion specified in sub-clause (2) below] will produce a further Rs. 10,000 in the new loan or any smaller amount.

(b) B, though not himself a subscriber to the new loan, purchases a conversion warrant for Rs. 10,000. He will have the same privileges as A.

(2) The applicant will be entitled to receive securities of the loan of 1916-17 at the rate of Rs. 96 of the loan of 1916-17 for each Rs. 100 of 3½ per cent. securities tendered, and at the rate of Rs. 82-8-0 of the loan of 1916-17 for each Rs. 100 of 3 per cent. securities tendered.

Examples.—(a) A possesses 3½ per cent. paper of the face value of Rs. 17,600. This, if he possesses sufficient conversion rights, can be converted into Rs. 17,600 × $\frac{96}{100}$ of the new loan, i.e., Rs. 16,896, subject to rounding into even hundreds.

(b) B possesses Rs. 9,300 of 3 per cent paper. This, if he possesses sufficient conversion rights, can be converted into Rs. 9,300 × $\frac{82\frac{1}{2}}{100}$ of the new loan, i.e., Rs. 7,672-8-0, subject to rounding into even hundreds.

(3) If the amount of securities tendered for conversion in respect of a particular warrant represents, at the foregoing rates of conversion, an amount of securities in the loan of 1916-17 which is not an exact multiple of Rs. 100, the applicant shall also pay in cash the balance required to make up the next higher multiple of Rs. 100.

Examples —(a) In the case mentioned in example (a) of sub-clause (2) above A will have to pay a further sum of Rs. 4 in cash if he wishes to secure conversion of the whole amount of securities tendered. He will then receive Rs. 16,900 in the new loan, provided that he possesses conversion rights for that or some larger amount.

(b) Similarly, B in example (b) of sub-clause (2) above will have to pay Rs. 27-8-0 in cash and will receive Rs. 7,700 in the new loan provided that he possesses conversion rights for that or some larger amount.

(4) If the amount of securities in the loan of 1916-17 represented by the securities tendered for conversion, together with the cash payment as above, if any, is identical with the sum specified in the warrant, the conversion rights conferred by the warrant will have been exercised to the fullest extent, and no further cash payment will be required or permissible.

Examples.—(a) A holds a conversion warrant for Rs. 10,000. He tenders for conversion Rs. 10,400 of 3½ per cent. paper, representing Rs. 9,984 in the new loan. He will pay Rs. 16 in cash and receive Rs. 10,000 of the new loan, his conversion rights being thus fully exercised.

(b) B holds a conversion warrant for Rs. 10,000. He tenders for conversion Rs. 12,100 of 3 per cent paper, representing Rs. 9,982-8-0 in the new loan. He will pay Rs. 17-8-0 in cash and receive Rs. 10,000 of the new loan, his conversion rights being thus fully exercised.

(5) If the amount of securities in the loan of 1916-17 represented by the securities tendered for conversion, together with the cash payment as above, if any, is less than the sum specified in the warrant, the applicant has the following options:—

(i) He may refrain from making any further cash payment, in which case he will receive the amount of securities in the loan of 1916-17 which is represented, at the prescribed rates of conversion, by the securities tendered for conversion and the cash payment, if any.

(ii) He may make such further cash payment as will enable him to receive, in securities of the loan of 1916-17, a total amount equal to the face value of the securities tendered for conversion, each Rs. 100 paid in cash being treated for this purpose as entitling the applicant to a further Rs. 100 in the loan of 1916-17.

Examples.—(a) A holds a conversion warrant for Rs. 10,000. He tenders for conversion Rs. 7,000 of 3½ per cent. paper, representing Rs. 6,720 in the new loan. Under sub-clause (3) above, he will in any case pay Rs. 80 in cash, thus becoming entitled to Rs. 6,800 in the new loan. He may then refrain from making any further cash payment. In that case his conversion rights to the extent of Rs. 3,200 will lapse, unless he has previously sub-divided his warrant, under clause 14 below, into separate warrants for Rs. 6,800 and Rs. 3,200, in which case he can sell the remaining warrant or otherwise dispose of it.

(b) Or, in the same case, A may pay a further Rs. 200 in cash, thus becoming entitled to receive Rs. 7,000 in the new loan, i.e., paper of the same face value in the new loan as that which he has surrendered. His remaining conversion rights amounting to Rs. 3,000 will lapse, unless conserved by previous sub-division of the warrant.

(c) B holds a conversion warrant for Rs. 8,000. He tenders for conversion Rs. 8,000 of 3 per cent. paper representing Rs. 6,600 in the new loan. He may refrain from making any supplementary cash payment, in which case his remaining conversion rights amounting to Rs. 1,400 will lapse, unless conserved by previous sub-division of the warrant.

(d) Or, in the same case, B may pay a further Rs. 1,400 in cash, thus becoming entitled to receive Rs. 8,000 in the new loan, i.e., paper of the same face value as that which he has surrendered. In this particular instance his conversion rights will then have been fully exercised.

(6) The same warrant may not be used partly for the conversion of securities of a 3½ per cent. rupee loan and partly for the conversion of securities of the 3 per cent. rupee loan.

Example.—A holds a conversion warrant for Rs. 12,000. He possesses Rs. 4,000 of 3½ per cent. paper representing Rs. 3,840 in the new loan, and Rs. 6,000 of 3 per cent. paper representing Rs. 4,950 in the new loan. He may not tender both denominations of paper for conversion under the one warrant. He may, however, subdivide his warrant into three warrants of Rs. 3,900, Rs. 5,000 and Rs. 3,100 respectively, utilising the first two to convert his holdings of paper and conserving his remaining conversion rights (with a view to sale or other mode of disposal) by means of the third warrant. Or, again, if he intends to take advantage of the option defined in sub-clause (5) (ii) above, he may subdivide his original warrant into three warrants of Rs. 4,000, Rs. 6,000 and Rs. 2,000 respectively, using the first two for conversion purposes and selling or otherwise disposing of the third.

(7) The same warrant may not be employed for more than one transaction. But a number of separate warrants may be used collectively, instead of a single warrant for the same aggregate amount.

Examples.—(a) A holds a conversion warrant for Rs. 9,000. He first converts Rs. 3,000 of 3½ per cent. paper. Subsequently he desires to convert a further Rs. 2,000 of 3½ per cent. paper. This cannot be done as, at the time of the first conversion transaction, his first warrant will have been resumed and any remaining conversion rights will have lapsed. His proper course is to proceed by subdivision of the warrant from the outset.

(b) B holds paper which, at the prescribed rate of conversion, represents Rs. 1,92,000 in the new loan. He also holds conversion rights for Rs. 1,50,000. By purchasing another warrant for Rs. 42,000, or several warrants aggregating that amount, and presenting all his warrants, he can secure the conversion of his entire holding.

14. A warrant will, on application by the holder, be subdivided by the Public Debt Office, Bank of Bengal, Calcutta, the Bank of Madras, or the Bank of Bombay, into two or more warrants (each for a sum which is an exact multiple of Rs. 100) entitling him to obtain the same aggregate amount of the new loan by conversion, on payment of a fee of 4 annas in respect of each of the warrants issued in exchange.

Note.—The original issue of warrants and also their subdivision will be carried out by the Public Debt Offices, Banks of Madras and Bombay, in cases in which the holder of the loan has asked that interest on his securities should be payable at a treasury in those Presidencies, and by the Public Debt Office, Bank of Bengal, Calcutta, in other cases. Should the holder of a warrant, for the purpose of exercising the rights attached to it, desire to present it at an office other than the office of issue, it must first be enfaced by the office of issue on the office at which it is intended to present it. No charge will be made for such enfacement.

15. The holder of a warrant desiring to exercise any of the rights attaching to it should, either in person or through a duly authorised representative, present, at any time after the 15th October 1916 and not later than the 16th January 1917, the warrant and an application for conversion, duly filled in and signed, as well as the securities which he desires to convert (and also any cash payment authorised under the terms of clause 13 above) at

(i) The Public Debt Office, Bank of Bengal, Calcutta, the Bank of Madras or the Bank of Bombay;

(ii) A Government treasury at district headquarters for transmission to one of the above; or

(iii) Any branch of the Banks of Bengal, Madras or Bombay.

The securities so presented should be duly receipted on the reverse as follows, or in a form as near thereto as circumstances admit:—

with interest payable at ... ...

Signature of the holder or duly authorised representative of ... ...
(give the name of holder).

16. Interest on securities tendered for conversion will be paid in cash up to the 30th September 1916. Securities of the Four per cent. Conversion Loan of 1916-17 issued in exchange will bear interest with effect from the 1st October 1916. No interest will be paid separately in respect of the cash payments made under clause 13 above.

Applications through the Post Office.

17. Applications for the loan will also be received at all Post Offices authorised to transact Post Office Savings Bank business during the hours fixed for such business from the 14th June to the 25th September from any person, whether previously a depositor in the Post Office Savings Bank or not, subject to the following conditions. Applications made under this clause will be accepted in full irrespective of the limit of Rs. 1,200 lakhs mentioned in clauses 1 and 8.

(1) Applications must be delivered personally or by messenger at a post office, where a receipt will be given for them.

(2) They must be made in the special printed form appended to this notification (Annexure 4), copies of which will be obtainable at the post offices.

(3) Each application must be for not less than Rs. 100 and not more than Rs. 5,000 and must be for a sum which is a multiple of Rs. 100.

NOTE.—The total amount which may be applied for by each applicant is limited to Rs. 5,000 but applications up to this amount will be permitted irrespective of any holdings of securities which the applicant may have previously obtained through the Post Office.

(4) Amounts applied for through the Post Office will not be payable in instalments, but must be deposited in full with the application. Payment in respect of such applications may be made in either of the following ways or partly in each:—

(a) By transfer from any balance in cash standing at the credit of the applicant's savings bank account if he has one.

(b) By a special payment; such payment may be made in coin or currency notes, or—at head post offices or at sub-post offices in Presidency Towns—by a cheque on a recognised bank.

18. (a) An applicant for the loan through the Post Office will receive a negotiable conversion warrant together with forms of application for conversion attached, enabling him to exercise the rights specified in clause 13 above.

Any securities in the 3½ per cent. or 3 per cent. rupee loans held by the Accountant General, Posts and Telegraphs, on the applicant's behalf, or purchased by him through the Post Office and held in his own custody, will be converted up to the limit admissible, on his presenting at any post office authorised to transact Savings Bank business, at any time after the 15th October 1916 and not later than the 16th January 1917, the warrant and the form of application (duly filled up), together with (a) the securities in his own custody, if any, endorsed to the Accountant General, Posts and Telegraphs, and (b) the cash payment (if any) required by clause 13.

(b) A conversion warrant issued through the Post Office may be sub-divided on application by the holder to the Public Debt Office, Bank of Bengal, Calcutta, the Bank of Madras or the Bank of Bombay, in the manner stated in clauses 13 and 14.

(c) A transferree of a conversion warrant issued through the Post Office will be entitled to the same privileges as the original holder, including the right to employ the agency of the Post Office for the conversion of securities held by the Accountant General, Posts and Telegraphs, on his behalf or purchased by him through the Post Office and held in his own custody.

(d) If the securities thus converted do not make up the full amount allowed by the conversion warrant, the holder will receive from the Post Office a fresh warrant for the difference, unless the unutilised amount is less than Rs. 500, in which case the warrant for the difference will only be issued on special application being made.

(e) In the case of 3½ per cent. or 3 per cent. rupee securities not purchased through the Post Office by the holder of the warrant (or its transferree), the procedure indicated in clause 15 should be followed to effect their conversion.

(f) Conversion of 3½ per cent. or 3 per cent. rupee securities purchased through the Post Office and deposited with the Accountant General, Posts and Telegraphs, will also be effected by the Accountant General, Posts and Telegraphs, on presentation as prescribed in (a) above of warrants issued without the intervention of the Post Office.

(a) Including Native States (b) 100 tons (c) 200 tons

In addition to the areas for which particulars are given above, the crops are grown in certain other tracts in British India, and the average areas so grown for the last five years have been some 50,000 acres of rape and mustard and some 36,000 acres of linseed. An addition of approximately 0·8 per cent (9,000 tons) should be made to the estimated total yield of rape and mustard and of 1 per cent (4,000 tons) to that of linseed, on this account.

Owing to insufficient winter rains conditions were not, on the whole, favourable for rape and mustard, except in Bihar and Orissa, Bengal, and the southern parts of the United Provinces, where conditions were fair to good. As regards linseed, conditions were, on the whole, fairly good, except in the Punjab, where, however, the crop is not important.

The provincial reports are summarised below :—

Rape and Mustard

United Provinces (40·2 per cent of the total area under rape and mustard in British India).—The area sown with the unmixed crop is reported to be 183,000 acres, which is 4 per cent below the area of last year. The yield is estimated at 34,000 tons, being nearly 21 per cent short of last year's yield. The area and yield of rapeseed grown mixed with other crops and used chiefly for home consumption are roughly estimated at 2,400,000 acres and 450,000 tons as compared with 2,350,000 acres and 530,000 tons last year. The crop suffered from want of rain in the western districts, and from insect pests in some of the eastern districts. For the province as a whole the outturn is estimated at 75 per cent of the normal as against 90 per cent last year.

Bengal (21·1 per cent of the total area under rape and mustard in British India).—The area sown is reported to be 1,322,000 acres, which is 1 per cent more than last year's area. The yield is estimated at 233,000 tons, being 1 per cent above the yield of last year. The rainfall in the months of September and October, though defective, was general throughout the province. Consequently sufficient moisture was left in the soil, and this helped the sowings, which generally took place at the normal time. There were good showers of rain in the third week of November, which favoured the growth of the crops. The total absence of rain since then interfered with the development of the crops to a considerable extent. Damage by insects is also reported from some places. On the whole the season was not very favourable.

Punjab (18·1 per cent of the total area under rape and mustard in British India).—The total area is estimated at 1,091,000 acres, which is 4 per cent above last year's area. The yield is estimated at 139,000 tons, being 20 per cent below that of last year. The season was fairly favourable for sowings, except in the south-east and west of the province, where the September rainfall was insufficient, and water in canals was inadequate. The winter rains were quite insufficient for the maturing of the unirrigated crops, which suffered considerably in the south-east and in parts of the west where such crops are important. Toria (an early variety of rape seed), which is grown on irrigated land, did better than other oilseeds. The yield on the irrigated areas in the south-east and west was below normal and in other tracts normal generally. On unirrigated areas it was generally poor, especially in the south-east, where it was damaged by strong cold winds and only a small portion of the crop matured.

Bihar and Orissa (11·4 per cent of the total area under rape and mustard in British India).—The total area sown is reported to be 725,000 acres, being 6 per cent above that of last year. The total yield is estimated at 138,000 tons, which is 41 per cent above that of last year. The conditions were generally favourable except in parts of Orissa, where damage was done by excessive rainfall in November. December and January were practically rainless. In February the rainfall was slightly above the normal in Patna and in the Tirhut division and below the normal elsewhere. In March scanty showers fell in parts of Balasore, Puri, Sambalpur, Ranchi, and Singhbhum. The yield was affected to some extent in parts of Bihar and Chota Nagpur, owing to defective winter rainfall. Some damage was also done by insect pests in Saran.

Assam (4·8 per cent of the total area under rape and mustard in British India).—The total area sown is reported to be 316,000 acres, which is 4 per cent larger than last year's area. The yield is estimated at 50,000 tons, being 14 per cent below that of last year. The rainfall and weather were favourable to the crops at the time of sowing, but drought later on retarded growth to a considerable extent.

Sind (1·9 per cent of the total area under rape and mustard in British India).—The total area sown is reported to be 163,000 acres (10,000 acres being in the Khairpur State), being 62 per cent less than last year's area. The decrease in area is attributed to low inundation and deficient water supply. Restricted demand for export also acted as a deterrent. The total yield is estimated at 17,000 tons (1,000 tons being in the Khairpur State), which is nearly 65 per cent less than the yield of last year.

Bombay (0·1 per cent of the total area under rape and mustard in British India).—The total area reported is 36,000 acres (34,000 acres being in the Native States), which is nearly 57 per cent below the area of last year. Owing to scanty rains there was little moisture in the soil and the area was considerably curtailed in the Native States of Gujarat to which the cultivation of rapeseed is almost wholly confined in the Presidency. The total yield is estimated at 6,000 tons (more than 5,000 tons being in the Native States), which is 71 per cent short of last year's yield.

North-West Frontier Province (1·6 per cent of the total area under rape and mustard in British India).—The total area sown is reported to be 105,000 acres, being 8 per cent less than last year's area. The yield is estimated at 14,000 tons, which is 12 per cent less than the yield of last year. The seasonal conditions were generally unfavourable for sowing in Hazara and Dera Ismail Khan. The yield on the whole has been average in Peshawar and Bannu, and below normal elsewhere.

Hyderabad reports under mustard 6,000 acres and 140 tons as compared with 7,000 acres and 175 tons last year.

Linseed.

Central Provinces and Berar (37·6 per cent of the total area under linseed in British India).—The total area sown is reported to be 1,048,000 acres (47,000 acres being in Berar), which is 14 per cent below the area of last year. Low prices, adverse climatic conditions, and scarcity of seed mainly account for the decrease in area. The yield is estimated at 83,000 tons (7,000 tons being in Berar), which is 4 per cent above last year's yield. Sowings were generally successful and germination was good. No resowing was necessary except in parts of Chanda, where the tender plants were up-rooted on low-lying lands by heavy rains. Winter showers benefited the crop, especially in Betul, Wardha, and Yeotmal. Protracted rain at sowing time, cloudy weather, frost, insects, and rust somewhat damaged the crop in several districts. For the provinces, as a whole, 96 per cent of a normal crop has been reaped.

United Provinces (32 per cent of the total area under linseed in British India).—The area under the unmixed crop is reported to be 305,000 acres, or 15 per cent more than last year's area. The area increased substantially in the Jhansi, Benares, and Gorakhpur divisions, where conditions at sowing time were favourable; elsewhere there was a large decrease, especially in Oudh owing to floods in low-lying tracts. The yield is estimated at 61,000 tons, which is 27 per cent above that of last year. In tracts in which linseed is largely grown unmixed, the yield has been satisfactory in spite of the dry weather during the growing period, and the seed is reported to be of good quality. For the province as a whole the crop is estimated at 95 per cent as against 80 per cent of the normal last year. The area and yield of linseed grown mixed with other crops and used chiefly for home consumption are roughly estimated at 650,000 acres and 130,000 tons as compared with 620,000 acres and 110,000 tons, last year.

Bihar and Orissa (17·1 per cent of the total area under linseed in British India).—The total area is reported to be 663,000 acres, which is 6 per cent above last year's area. The total yield is estimated at 136,000 tons, being 33 per cent more than that of last year. The character of the season and the condition of the crop are the same as described above under "rape and mustard".

Bengal (5·9 per cent of the total area under linseed in British India).—The total area sown is reported to be 181,000 acres as against 182,000 acres last year. The yield is estimated at 28,000 tons, being 8 per cent above last year's yield. The character of the season is the same as described above under "rape and mustard".

Bombay (5·1 per cent of the total area under linseed in British India).—The total area sown is reported to be 147,000 acres (13,000 acres being in the Native States), which is 17 per cent above the acreage of last year. The total yield is estimated at 21,000 tons (1,000 tons being in the Native States), which is 23 per cent above last year's yield. The season was favourable in the Deccan and Karnatak where the crop is principally grown and its cultivation was extended in all districts, except Nasik, Satara, and Belgaum. The crop suffered from deficiency of moisture, in parts of Sholapur and Satara and in the Southern Maratha Country States; elsewhere it throve well.

Punjab (1·2 per cent of the total area under linseed in British India).—The area sown is reported to be 35,000 acres, or 29 per cent below last year's area. The yield is estimated at 3,000 tons, which falls 40 per cent below that of last year. Reports as to the character of the season are the same as summarised above under "rape and mustard". In Kangra, the most important linseed-growing tract in the province, the climatic conditions remained unfavourable throughout.

Hyderabad reports 288,000 acres under linseed, which is 23 per cent above last year's area. The total yield is estimated at 12,000 tons, being 33 per cent above the yield of last year.

Oilseed crops in foreign countries.—The latest information published by the International Institute of Agriculture, Rome, shows that the estimates of the linseed crop of 1915-16 in the Argentine are 3,999,000 acres and 980,000 tons as against 4,256,000 acres and 1,105,000 tons in 1914-15. The area and yield of linseed in Canada in 1915 are, according to the final results, estimated to be 803,000 acres and 265,000 tons as compared with 1,162,000 acres and 179,000 tons in 1914. From the monthly Crop Reports of the United States Department of Agriculture, it appears that the estimates of the linseed crop of the United States of America for 1915 are 1,367,000 acres and 321,000 tons as compared with 1,645,000 acres and 319,000 tons in the preceding year. His Majesty's Commercial Attaché at Petrograd reported that in Russia the linseed crop was uneven, but in general not below the average. Winter rapeseed was in general an average crop and mustard seed fully satisfactory. From unofficial sources it appears that the area under rapeseed in Roumania this season has decreased to 28,864 acres, being 52 per cent smaller than last year, due to unfavourable weather conditions in August and September.

Despatch from His Majesty's Secretary of State for India, No. 3-Financial (Funds), dated the 28th April 1916.

No. 521-F.E.—Ordered that a copy be forwarded, in continuation of endorsement No. 275-F.E., dated the 28th February 1914, to the Home

Department and to all local Governments and Administrations; to the Comptroller and Auditor-General, and to the Comptroller, India Treasuries.

By order, etc.,

India Office, London,

Financial (Funds),
No. 3.

To His Excellency the Right Honourable the Governor General of India in Council.

MY LORD,

Indian Civil Service Family Pensions.
Date of next Valuation.

In paragraph 3 of my predecessor's Despatch, Financial (Funds), No. 1, dated 30th January 1914, attention was drawn to the very thorough manner in which the whole Indian Civil Service Family Pension Scheme had been investigated by the late Sir George Hardy, K.C.B., past President of the Institute of Actuaries, in the course of preparing his Reports on the Valuation as at the 31st March 1911. After a careful consideration of these Reports, changes in the Regulations with effect from the 1st April 1914 were authorised embodying certain concessions to the subscribers. As only two years have elapsed since that time, it seems unnecessary as yet to investigate the financial position of the Scheme afresh, especially at a time when great pressure of work is caused by the War. I have, therefore, decided in Council that the next Valuation of the Scheme shall be made as at the 31st March 1918, instead of as at 31st March 1916.

2. You may perhaps consider it desirable to publish this Despatch in the Gazette of India for the information of the subscribers.

I have the honour to be,

MY LORD,

Your Lordship's most obedient, humble Servant,

(Signed) AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN.

The loan will be for a sum of six hundred lakhs of rupees, but the Governor General in Council will accept applications in excess of this amount up to a further six hundred lakhs, or twelve hundred lakhs of rupees in all, exclusive of such supplementary applications as may be received through the Post Office under clauses 17 and 18 below. The loan, which will be known as the Four Per Cent Conversion Loan of 1916-17, will be issued at par and will bear interest at 4 per cent per annum If not previously redeemed, it will be repaid at par on the 1st October 1936, but the Governor General in Council reserves the right to redeem it, or any part of it which he may from time to time select for redemption, at any time on or after the 1st October 1931 on giving not less than three calendar months notice in the Gazette of India.

2. The loan may be held either as registered stock in respect of which stock certificates will be issued to the holders, or in promissory notes negotiable by endorsement in the form appended to this Notification (Annexure 1). Interest will be paid half-yearly on the 1st day of April and the 1st day of October.

The Government have under consideration the issue of bearer-bonds, i.e., notes negotiable by delivery. When this measure is carried out, the fullest facilities will be given for conversion, if so desired, of promissory notes (or registered stock) into bearer-bonds and vice versâ.

Applications.

3 Applications for the whole or any part of the loan may be presented on any day from Wednesday, the 14th June, to Wednesday, the 28th June, inclusive, between the hours* of 11 and 3 (except on Saturdays when they will be received up to 2 P.M.). Applications must be for sums of Rs. 100 or multiples of that sum. Applications may be presented to :

(1) The Controller of Currency at Calcutta, or any of the following Accountants General and Comptrollers :—

Accountant General, Bombay ; Accountant General, Madras ; Accountant General, Punjab ; Accountant General, United Provinces ; Accountant General, Bihar and Orissa ; Accountant General, Burma ; Comptroller, Assam ; and Comptroller, Central Provinces.

(2) The Secretary and Treasurer of the Bank of Bengal, Madras, or Bombay, at their head offices, or the Agent in charge of any branch of these Banks in India.

(3) The officers in charge of Government treasuries at district head-quarters.

Applications for amounts exceeding Rs. 5,000 may however be presented to the Controller of Currency, the Accountants General, Madras and Bombay, or at the head offices of the Banks of Bengal, Madras and Bombay until the hour* of 12 noon on Saturday, the 1st July.

4. Each application must be addressed, in the form appended to this Notification (Annexure 2), to one of the persons mentioned above, and enclosed in a cover, superscribed 'Application for Four Per Cent Conversion Loan of 1916-17.' If the applicant is not resident in India, he must name an agent resident in India to whom an allotment-certificate may be issued.

*The hours will be reckoned according to the time ordinarily observed for public business at each centre.

Deposits.

5. Each application must be accompanied by a deposit of not less than 5 per cent of the amount applied for. The deposit must be in one of the following forms:—

(a) A receipt for the amount from the head office of the Bank of Bengal, Madras, or Bombay, or one of their Branches in India, or from an officer in charge of any Government treasury at head-quarters of districts or at sub-divisions or tahsils, or

(b) A cheque drawn in favour of the officer to whom the application is addressed on a Bank at the place at which the application is presented, or

(c) Whole currency notes attached to the application.

6. Deposits will be credited in part payment of the allotment-certificates issued in respect of the application, and will bear interest for the purpose of clause 12 below from the date on which the application is presented. If any of the instalments due on an allotment-certificate are not paid on the prescribed dates, the deposit credited in respect of it will be forfeited.

Commission to bankers and brokers.

7. A commission of one-eighth per cent will be allowed to recognised bankers or brokers on allotments made in respect of cash applications for this issue bearing their stamp, but no commission will be allowed in respect of applications for the loan received through the Post Office under clause 17 of this Notification or in respect of applications for conversion.

Method of Allotment.

8. In the event of the applications exceeding the maximum limit of Rs. 1,200 lakhs mentioned in clause 1 of this Notification, that sum will be divided among applicants according to priority of application, subject to the acceptance in full of small applications not exceeding Rs. 5,000, and to proportionate distribution, as far as may be convenient, among applicants whose applications are presented on the first day on which the loan is over-subscribed.

Allotment-certificates.

9. To each applicant (or to his agent) whose application is accepted in whole or in part, such number of allotment-certificates as may be necessary to make up the aggregate amount allotted to him will be issued as soon as possible after the 1st July, and an alphabetical list of the names of those to whom such allotment-certificates are issued will be posted for general information at the head offices of the Banks of Bengal, Madras and Bombay, and will also be communicated to the principal newspapers.

The allotment-certificates will be issued by the Controller of Currency in the case of all applications presented to him or to the head office of the Bank of Bengal or its branches in Calcutta, and in other cases by the Accountant General or Comptroller concerned—including the Accountant General, Bengal, and the Comptroller, India Treasuries, in the case of applications presented at treasuries or branches of Presidency Banks within their accounts circle. In the case of applications made through a Presidency Bank or one of its branches the allotment-certificates will be issued through such Bank or branch.

10. If the allotment made on any application is not more than Rs. 5,000, then the whole of the allotment-certificates (after credit of the deposit under clause 6) will be payable on the 3rd August. Otherwise, the whole amount of each allotment-certificate will be divided into four instalments as follows:

Instalment I.—As near as convenient to 20 per cent, but not less than 20 per cent., payable on the 13th July.

Instalment II.—As near as convenient to 25 per cent., but not less than 25 per cent., payable on the 3rd August.

Instalment III.—As near as convenient to 25 per cent., but not less than 25 per cent., payable on the 22nd August.

Instalment IV.—The balance payable on the 7th September.

But the whole or any part of any accepted application may be paid at any time after receipt of the allotment-certificate.

The words "as near as convenient" refer to the necessity for making each instalment an exact multiple of Rs. 100.

11. Payment of any allotment-certificate may be made in the head office of the Bank of Bengal, or Madras, or Bombay, or in any branch of these Banks in India, or into any Government treasury at district headquarters which may be named in the application in respect of which the allotment-certificate was issued. Receipts for such payments will be given by the Banks of Bengal, Madras and Bombay, or their branches, or by the officers in charge of the Government treasuries at which payment is made, by enfacement upon the relative certificate.

12 When any allotment-certificate is fully paid up, the holder will, on presenting it duly receipted at the place where it was paid, obtain from the Public Debt Office, Calcutta, either (a) a stock certificate, or (b) promissory notes of such values as he may desire (each note being in even hundreds and not less than Rs. 100), bearing interest from the 1st October 1916; he will also receive interest at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum up to the 30th September 1916, commencing from the date of presentation of the application in respect of the deposit made under clause 5, and from the actual dates of payment in respect of subsequent instalments.

Conversion of Securities of the existing $3\frac{1}{2}$ and 3 per cent. rupee loans of the Government of India.

13. The holder of a fully paid-up allotment certificate will further receive, on its presentation as above, a negotiable warrant in the form appended to this Notification (Annexure 3) specifying the amount paid on the allotment-certificate and entitling the holder of the warrant to the privilege of converting $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent or 3 per cent rupee securities of the Government of India into securities of the Four per cent. Conversion loan of 1916-17 to the extent, and under the conditions, defined below, provided that application for such conversion is made by the holder of the warrant not later than the 16th January 1917.

(1) The amount of securities in the loan of 1916-17 obtained by such conversion may be any exact multiple of Rs. 100 not exceeding the sum specified in the warrant as having been paid on the allotment certificate.

Examples:—(a) A has subscribed Rs. 10,000 to the new loan. He will receive a conversion warrant for Rs. 10,000. This will enable him, if he chooses, to tender for conversion as much $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent paper or 3 per cent paper as [at the rates of conversion specified in sub-clause (2) below] will produce a further Rs. 10,000 in the new loan or any smaller amount.

(b) B, though not himself a subscriber to the new loan, purchases a conversion warrant for Rs. 10,000. He will have the same privileges as A.

(2) The applicant will be entitled to receive securities of the loan of 1916-17 at the rate of Rs. 96 of the loan of 1916-17 for each Rs. 100 of $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent securities tendered, and at the rate of Rs. 82-8-0 of the loan of 1916-17 for each Rs. 100 of 3 per cent securities tendered.

Examples.—(a) A possesses $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent paper of the face value of Rs. 17,600. This, if he possesses sufficient conversion rights, can be converted into Rs. $17{,}600 \times \frac{96}{100}$ of the new loan, i.e., Rs. 16,896, subject to rounding into even hundreds.

(b) B possesses Rs. 9,300 of 3 per cent paper. This, if he possesses sufficient conversion rights, can be converted into Rs. $9{,}300 \times \frac{82\frac{1}{2}}{100}$ of the new loan, i.e., Rs. 7,672-8-0, subject to rounding into even hundreds.

(3) If the amount of securities tendered for conversion in respect of a particular warrant represents, at the foregoing rates of conversion, an amount of securities in the loan of 1916-17 which is not an exact multiple of Rs. 100, the applicant shall also pay in cash the balance required to make up the next higher multiple of Rs. 100.

Examples:—(a) In the case mentioned in example (a) of sub-clause (2) above A will have to pay a further sum of Rs. 4 in cash if he wishes to secure conversion of the whole amount of securities tendered. He will then receive Rs. 16,900 in the new loan provided that he possesses conversion rights for that or some larger amount.

(b) Similarly, B in example (b) of sub-clause (2) above will have to pay Rs. 27-8-0 in cash and will receive Rs 7,700 in the new loan provided that he possesses conversion rights for that or some larger amount.

(4) If the amount of securities in the loan of 1916-17 represented by the securities tendered for conversion, together with the cash payment as above, if any, is identical with the sum specified in the warrant, the conversion rights conferred by the warrant will have been exercised to the fullest extent, and no further cash payment will be required or permissible.

Examples:—(a) A holds a conversion warrant for Rs. 10,000. He tenders for conversion Rs. 10,400 of 3½ per cent paper, representing Rs. 9,984 in the new loan. He will pay Rs. 16 in cash and receive Rs. 10,000 of the new loan, his conversion rights being thus fully exercised.

(b) B holds a conversion warrant for Rs. 10,000. He tenders for conversion Rs. 12,100 of 3 per cent paper, representing Rs. 9,982-8-0 in the new loan. He will pay Rs. 17-8-0 in cash and receive Rs. 10,000 of the new loan, his conversion rights being thus fully exercised.

(5) If the amount of securities in the loan of 1916-17 represented by the securities tendered for conversion, together with the cash payment as above, if any, is less than the sum specified in the warrant, the applicant has the following options:—

(i) He may refrain from making any further cash payment, in which case he will receive the amount of securities in the loan of 1916-17 which is represented, at the prescribed rates of conversion, by the securities tendered for conversion and the cash payment, if any.

(ii) He may make such further cash payment as will enable him to receive, in securities of the loan of 1916-17, a total amount equal to the face value of the securities tendered for conversion, each Rs. 100 paid in cash being treated for this purpose as entitling the applicant to a further Rs. 100 in the loan of 1916-17.

Examples:—(a) A holds a conversion warrant for Rs. 10,000. He tenders for conversion Rs. 7,000 of 3½ per cent paper, representing Rs. 6,720 in the new loan. Under sub-clause (3) above, he will in any case pay Rs. 80 in cash, thus becoming entitled to Rs. 6,800 in the new loan. He may then refrain from making any further cash payment. In that case his conversion rights to the extent of Rs. 3,200 will lapse, unless he has previously subdivided his warrant, under clause 14 below, into separate warrants for Rs. 6,800 and Rs. 3,200, in which case he can sell the remaining warrant or otherwise dispose of it.

(b) Or, in the same case, A may pay a further Rs. 200 in cash, thus becoming entitled to receive Rs. 7,000 in the new loan, i.e., paper of the same face value in the new loan as that which he has surrendered. His remaining conversion rights amounting to Rs. 3,000 will lapse, unless conserved by previous subdivision of the warrant.

(c) B holds a conversion warrant for Rs. 8,000. He tenders for conversion Rs. 8,000 of 3 per cent paper representing Rs. 6,600 in the new loan He may refrain from making any supplementary cash payment, in which case his remaining conversion rights amounting to Rs. 1,400 will lapse, unless conserved by previous subdivision of the warrant.

(d) Or, in the same case, B may pay a further Rs. 1,400 in cash, thus becoming entitled to receive Rs. 8,000 in the new loan, i.e., paper of the same face value as that which he has surrendered. In this particular instance his conversion rights will then have been fully exercised.

(6) The same warrant may not be used partly for the conversion of securities of a 3½ per cent rupee loan and partly for the conversion of securities of the 3 per cent rupee loan.

Example:—A holds a conversion warrant for Rs. 12,000. He possesses Rs. 4,000 of 3½ per cent paper representing Rs. 3,840 in the new loan, and Rs. 6,000 of 3 per cent paper representing Rs. 4,950 in the new loan. He may not tender both denominations of paper for conversion under the one warrant. He may, however, subdivide his warrant into three warrants of Rs. 3,900, Rs. 5,000 and Rs. 3,100 respectively, utilising the first two to convert his holdings of paper and conserving his remaining conversion rights (with a view to sale or other mode of disposal) by means of the third warrant. Or, again, if he intends to take advantage of the option defined in sub-clause (5) (ii) above, he may subdivide his original warrant into three warrants of Rs. 4,000, Rs. 6,000 and Rs. 2,000, respectively, using the first two for conversion purposes and selling or otherwise disposing of the third.

(7) The same warrant may not be employed for more than one transaction. But a number of separate warrants may be used collectively, instead of a single warrant for the same aggregate amount.

Examples :—(a) A holds a conversion warrant for Rs. 9,000. He first converts Rs. 3,000 of 3½ per cent paper. Subsequently he desires to convert a further Rs. 2,000 of 3½ per cent paper. This cannot be done as, at the time of the first conversion transaction, his first warrant will have been resumed and any remaining conversion rights will have lapsed. His proper course is to proceed by subdivision of the warrant from the outset.

(b) B holds paper which, at the prescribed rate of conversion, represents Rs. 1,92,000 in the new loan. He also holds conversion rights for Rs. 1,50,000. By purchasing another warrant for Rs. 42,000, or several warrants aggregating that amount, and presenting all his warrants, he can secure the conversion of his entire holding.

14. A warrant will, on application by the holder, be subdivided by the Public Debt Office, Bank of Bengal, Calcutta, the Bank of Madras, or the Bank of Bombay, into two or more warrants (each for a sum which is an exact multiple of Rs. 100) entitling him to obtain the same aggregate amount of the new loan by conversion, on payment of a fee of 4 annas in respect of each of the warrants issued in exchange.

Note.—The original issue of warrants and also their subdivision will be carried out by the Public Debt Offices, Banks of Madras and Bombay, in cases in which the holder of the loan has asked that interest on his securities should be payable at a treasury in those Presidencies, and by the Public Debt Office, Bank of Bengal, Calcutta, in other cases. Should the holder of a warrant, for the purpose of exercising the rights attached to it, desire to present it at an office other than the office of issue, it must first be enfaced by the office of issue on the office at which it is intended to present it. No charge will be made for such enfacement.

15. The holder of a warrant desiring to exercise any of the rights attaching to it should, either in person or through a duly-authorised representative, present, at any time after the 15th October 1916 and not later than the 16th January 1917, the warrant and an application for conversion, duly filled in and signed, as well as the securities which he desires to convert (and also any cash payment authorised under the terms of clause 13 above) at

(i) The Public Debt Office, Bank of Bengal, Calcutta, the Bank of Madras or the Bank of Bombay ;

(ii) A Government treasury at district headquarters for transmission to one of the above ; or

(iii) Any branch of the Banks of Bengal, Madras or Bombay.

The securities so presented should be duly receipted on the reverse as follows, or in a form as near thereto as circumstances admit :—

Received in lieu hereof a stock certificate / promissory note(s) of the Four per cent Conversion loan of 1916-17 payable to . . . for Rs. . . .
with interest payable at . . . .

Signature of the holder or duly-authorised representative of
(give the name of holder).

16. Interest on securities tendered for conversion will be paid in cash up to the 30th September 1916. Securities of the Four per cent Conversion loan of 1916-17 issued in exchange will bear interest with effect from the 1st October 1916. No interest will be paid separately in respect of the cash payments made under clause 13 above.

Applications through the Post Office.

17. Applications for the loan will also be received at all post offices authorised to transact Post Office Savings Bank business during the hours fixed for such business, from the 14th June to the 25th September, from any person whether previously a depositor in the Post Office Savings Bank or not, subject to the following conditions. Applications made under this clause will be accepted in full irrespective of the limit of Rs. 1,200 lakhs mentioned in clauses 1 and 8.

(1) Applications must be delivered personally or by messenger at a post office where a receipt will be given for them.

(2) They must be made in the special printed form appended to this Notification (Annexure 4), copies of which will be obtainable at the post offices.

(3) Each application must be for not less than Rs. 100 and not more than Rs. 5,000 and must be for a sum which is a multiple of Rs. 100.

NOTE.—The total amount which may be applied for by each applicant is limited to Rs. 5,000 but applications up to this amount will be permitted irrespective of any holdings of securities which the applicant may have previously obtained through the Post Office.

(4) Amounts applied for through the Post Office will not be payable in instalments, but must be deposited in full with the application. Payment in respect of such applications may be made in either of the following ways or partly in each :—

(a) By transfer from any balance in cash standing at the credit of the applicant's savings bank account if he has one.

(b) By a special payment ; such payment may be made in coin or currency notes, or—at head post offices or at sub-post offices in Presidency Towns—by a cheque on a recognised bank.

18. (a) An applicant for the loan through the Post Office will receive a negotiable conversion warrant together with forms of application for conversion attached, enabling him to exercise the rights specified in clause 13 above. Any securities in the 3½ per cent or 3 per cent rupee loans held by the Accountant General, Posts and Telegraphs, on the applicant's behalf, or purchased by him through the Post Office and held in his own custody, will be converted up to the limit admissible, on his presenting at any post office authorised to transact savings bank business, at any time after the 15th October 1916 and not later than the 16th January 1917, the warrant and the form of application (duly filled up), together with (a) the securities in his own custody, if any, endorsed to the Accountant General, Posts and Telegraphs, and (b) the cash payment (if any) required by clause 13.

LONDON GAZETTE.

No. 645.—The following is published for general information :—

" London Gazette " dated the 10th April 1916, pages 3777 to 3785.

War Office,
London, S. W.,
10th April 1916.

The following despatch has been received by the Secretary of State for War from General Sir C. C. Monro, K.C.B. :—

Headquarters,
1st Army,
France,
6th March 1916.

MY LORD,

I have the honour to submit herewith a brief account of the operations in the Eastern Mediterranean from the 28th October, 1915, on which date I assumed command of the Mediterranean Expeditionary Force, until the 9th January, 1916, when in compliance with your directions, I handed over charge at Cairo to Lieut.-General Sir Archibald Murray, K.C.B., C.V.O., D.S.O.

On the 20th October in London, I received your Lordship's instructions to proceed as soon as possible to the near East and take over the command of the Mediterranean Expeditionary Force.

My duty on arrival was in broad outline :—

(a) To report on the military situation on the Gallipoli Peninsula.

(b) To express an opinion whether on purely military grounds the Peninsula should be evacuated, or another attempt made to carry it.

(c) The number of troops that would be required,

(1) to carry the Peninsula,

(2) to keep the Straits open, and

(3) to take Constantinople.

Two days after my arrival at Imbros, where the headquarters of the M.E.F. was established, I proceeded to the Peninsula to investigate the military situation. The impressions I gathered are summarised very shortly as follows :—

The positions occupied by our troops presented a military situation unique in history. The mere fringe of the coast line had been secured. The beaches and piers upon which they depended for all requirements in personnel and material were exposed to registered and observed Artillery fire. Our entrenchments were dominated almost throughout by the Turks. The possible Artillery positions were insufficient and defective. The Force, in short, held a line possessing every possible military defect. The position was without depth, the communications were insecure and dependent on the weather. No means existed for the concealment and deployment of fresh troops destined for the offensive—whilst the Turks enjoyed full powers of observation, abundant Artillery positions, and they had been given the time to supplement the natural advantages which the position presented by all the devices at the disposal of the Field Engineer.

Another material factor came prominently before me. The troops on the Peninsula had suffered much from various causes.

(a) It was not in the first place possible to withdraw them from the shell-swept area as is done when necessary in France, for every corner on the Peninsula is exposed to hostile fire.

(b) They were much enervated from the diseases which are endemic in that part of Europe in the summer.

(c) In consequence of the losses which they had suffered in earlier battles, there was a very grave dearth of officers competent to take command of men.

(d) In order to maintain the numbers needed to hold the front, the Territorial Divisions had been augmented by the attachment of Yeomanry and Mounted Brigades. Makeshifts of this nature very obviously did not tend to create efficiency.

Other arguments, irrefutable in their conclusions, convinced me that a complete evacuation was the only wise course to pursue.

(a) It was obvious that the Turks could hold us in front with a small force and prosecute their designs on Baghdad or Egypt, or both.

(b) An advance from the positions we held could not be regarded as a reasonable military operation to expect.

(c) Even had we been able to make an advance in the Peninsula, our position would not have been ameliorated to any marked degree, and an advance on Constantinople was quite out of the question.

(d) Since we could not hope to achieve any purpose by remaining on the Peninsula, the appalling cost to the nation involved in consequence of embarking on an Overseas Expedition with no base available for the rapid transit of stores, supplies and personnel, made it urgent that we should divert the troops locked up on the Peninsula to a more useful theatre.

Since therefore I could see no military advantage in our continued occupation of positions on the Peninsula, I telegraphed to your Lordship that in my opinion the evacuation of the Peninsula should be taken in hand.

Subsequently, I proceeded to Egypt to confer with Colonel Sir H. McMahon, the High Commissioner, and Lieut.-General Sir J. Maxwell, Commanding the Forces in Egypt, over the situation which might be created in Egypt and the Arab world by the evacuation of the Peninsula.

Whilst in Egypt I was ordered by a telegram from the War Office to take command of the troops at Salonika. The purport of this telegram was subsequently cancelled by your Lordship on your arrival at Mudros, and I was then ordered to assume Command of the Forces in the Mediterranean, east of Malta, and exclusive of Egypt.

Consequent on these instructions, I received approval that the two Forces in the Mediterranean should be designated as follows :—

(a) The original Mediterranean Expeditionary Force, which comprised the Forces operating on the Gallipoli Peninsula and those employed at Mudros and Imbros as the "Dardanelles Army", under Lieut.-General Sir W. Birdwood, K.C.B., etc., with headquarters at Imbros.

(b) The troops destined for Salonika as the "Salonika Army", under Lieut.-General Sir B. Mahon, K.C.B., with headquarters at Salonika.

The Staff of the original M.E.F. was left in part to form the Dardanelles Army, and the remainder were taken to make a General Headquarter Staff for the increased responsibilities now assumed Other officers doing duty in this theatre with the necessary qualifications were selected, and, with no difficulty or demands on home resources, a thoroughly efficient and adequate Staff was created.

Mudros was selected as being the most suitable site for the establishment of headquarters, as affording an opportunity, in addition to other advantages, of daily consultation with the Inspector General, Line of Communications. The working of the services of the Line of Communications presented difficulties of an unique character, mainly owing to—

(a) the absence of pier and wharfage accommodation at Mudros and the necessity of transferring all Ordnance and Engineer Stores from one ship to another ;

(b) the submarine danger ;

(c) the delay caused by rough weather.

Close association with General Altham was therefore most imperative, and by this means many important changes were made which conduced to greater efficiency and more prompt response to the demands of fighting units.

A narrative of the events which occurred in each of the two Armies is now recorded separately for facility of perusal and reference.

SALONIKA ARMY.

Early in October the 10th Division, under Lieut.-General Sir B. Mahon, K.C.B., was transferred from Suvla to Salonika, and fully concentrated there. The dislocation of units caused by the landing on the Peninsula and the subsequent heavy fighting which occurred prevented this Division being despatched intact. The organisation of the Infantry and the Royal Engineers was not disturbed, but the other services had to be improvised from other Divisions as found most accessible.

The arrival of the 10th Division had been preceded by two French Divisions under General Sarrail, whose Force was subsequently augmented by another Division. These three Divisions were then moved into Servia under the understanding arranged between the Allies Governments, which was to the effect that the French Forces were to protect the railway between Krivolak and Veles, and to ensure communication with the Servian Army, whilst the British were to maintain the position from Salonika to Krivolak, and to support the French Right. If communication with the Servian Army could not be opened and maintained, the Allied Forces were to be withdrawn.

With this object, two Battalions of the 10th Division were moved from Salonika on 27th October, and took over the French front from Kosturino to Lake Doiran. The remainder of the Division was sent to Servia on 12th November and following days, and took over the French front eastwards from Kosturino.

The task of moving troops into Servia and maintaining them there presented many difficulties No road exists from Salonika to Doiran, a few miles of road then obtains, which is followed within a few miles by a track only suitable for pack transport. Sir B. Mahon had therefore to readjust his transport to a pack scale, and was dependent on a railway of uncertain carrying power to convey back his guns and all wheeled traffic in case of a withdrawal, and to supply his troops whilst in Servia.

Very soon afterwards reinforcements commenced to arrive. The disembarkation of these new divisions was an operation which taxed the powers of organisation and resources of the staff at Salonika to the highest degree possible, and it speaks highly for their capacity that they were able to shelter and feed the troops as they arrived.

During November and the early part of December the 10th Division was holding its position in Servia, and the disembarkation of other divisions was proceeding with difficulty.

In order to gain time for the landing of the troops, and their deployment on the positions selected, I represented to General Sarrail and Sir B. Mahon the urgent need of the divisions withdrawing from Servia being utilised as a covering force, and retaining their ground as such until the Forces disembarking were thoroughly in a position to hold their front.

It had been evident for some time that the power of resistance of the Servian Armies was broken, and that the Allied Forces could afford them no material assistance. It was also clear from all information received that the position of our troops was becoming daily more precarious owing to a large German-Bulgarian concentration in the Strumniza Valley. I, therefore, again pressed General Sarrail to proceed with his withdrawal from the positions he was holding. The British Division operating as it was, as the pivot upon which the withdrawal was effected, was compelled to hold its ground until the French Left was brought back.

Before our withdrawal was completed the 10th Division was heavily attacked on the 6th, 7th and 8th December, by superior Bulgarian Forces. The troops had suffered considerably from the cold in the Highlands of Macedonia, and in the circumstances conducted themselves very creditably in being able to extricate themselves from a difficult position with no great losses. The account of this action was reported by wire to you by General Mahon on the 11th December: no further reference is therefore necessary to this incident.

As soon as I was informed that the 10th Division was being heavily pressed, I directed Sir B. Mahon to send a Brigade up the railway line in support, and to hold another Brigade ready to proceed at short notice. The withdrawal was, however, conducted into Greek territory without further opposition from the Bulgarians.

Meanwhile, the operation of disembarkation at Salonika was being carried out with all possible speed, and the Greek Authorities through their representative from Athens, Colonel Pallis, were informed by me that we intended to proceed to the defensive line selected This intimation was received in good part by the Greek Generals. They commenced to withdraw their troops further to the East where they did not hamper our plans, and they showed a disposition to meet our demands in a reasonable and friendly spirit.

Whilst dealing with the events above enumerated, I desire to give special prominence to the difficulties to which General Sir B. Mahon was exposed from the time of his landing at Salonika, and the ability which he displayed in overcoming them. The subjoined instances, selected from many which could be given, will illustrate my contention, and the high standard of administrative capacity displayed by the G. O. C. and his Staff:—

(a) From the date on which the 10th Division first proceeded into Servia until the date of its withdrawal across the Greek frontier, personnel, guns, supplies and material of all kinds had to be sent up by rail to Doiran, and onwards by march, motor lorries, limbered waggons and pack animals. This railway, moreover was merely a single track, and had to serve the demands of the local population as well as our needs. The evacuation of the wounded and sick had to be arranged on similar lines, yet the requirements of the troops were fully satisfied.

(b) The majority of the Divisions were sent without trains to Salonika, most units without first line transport; in spite of this, part of the Force was converted into a mobile condition with very little delay.

(c) The complications presented by the distribution and checking of stores, supplies, ammunition, etc., discharged from ships on to quays, with insufficient accommodation or storehouses, and with crude means of ingress and egress therefrom, and served by a single road which was divided between the French and ourselves, constituted a problem which could only be solved by officers of high administrative powers. I trust, therefore, that full recognition may be given to my recommendation of the officers who rendered such fine service under such arduous conditions.

THE DARDANELLES ARMY.

On my arrival in the Mediterranean theatre a gratifying decline in the high rate of sickness which had prevailed in the Force during the summer months had become apparent. The wastage due to this cause still, however, remained very high.

The Corps Commanders were urged to take all advantage of the improved weather conditions to strengthen their positions by all available means, and to reduce to the last degree possible all animals not actually required for the maintenance of the troops, in order to relieve the strain imposed on the Naval Transport Service.

During the month of November, beyond the execution of very clever and successful minor enterprises carried out by Corps Commanders with a view to maintaining an offensive spirit in their commands, there remains little to record—except that an increased activity of the Turkish artillery against our front became a noticeable factor.

On the 21st November the Peninsula was visited by a storm said to be nearly unprecedented for the time of the year. The storm was accompanied by torrential rain, which lasted for 24 hours. This was followed by hard frost and a heavy blizzard. In the areas of the 8th Corps and the Anzac Corps the effects were not felt to a very marked degree owing to the protection offered by the surrounding hills. The 9th Corps were less favourably situated, the water courses in this area became converted into surging rivers, which carried all before them. The water rose in many places to the height of the parapets and all means of communications were prevented. The men, drenched as they were by the rain, suffered from the subsequent blizzard most severely. Large numbers collapsed from exposure and exhaustion, and in spite of untiring efforts that were made to mitigate the suffering, I regret to announce that there were 200 deaths from exposure and over 10,000 sick evacuated during the first few days of December.

From reports given by deserters it is probable that the Turks suffered even to a greater degree.

In this period our flimsy piers, breakwaters and light shipping became damaged by the storm to a degree which might have involved most serious consequences, and was a very potent indication of the dangers attached to the maintenance and supply of an army operating on a coast line with no harbour, and devoid of all the accessories such as wharves, piers, cranes and derricks for the discharge and distribution of stores, etc.

Towards the latter end of the month, having in view the possibility of an evacuation of the Peninsula being ordered, I directed Lieutenant-General Sir W. Birdwood, Commanding the Dardanelles Army, to prepare a scheme to this end, in order that all details should be ready in case of sanction being given to this operation.

I had in broad outline contemplated soon after my arrival on the Peninsula that an evacuation could best be conducted by a sub-division into three stages.

The first during which all troops, animals and supplies not required for a long campaign should be withdrawn.

The second to comprise the evacuation of all men, guns, animals and stores not required for defence during a period when the conditions of weather might retard the evacuation, or in fact seriously alter the programme contemplated.

The third or final stage, in which the troops on shore should be embarked with all possible speed, leaving behind such guns, animals and stores needed for military reasons at this period.

This problem with which we were confronted was the withdrawal of an army of a considerable size from positions in no cases more than 300 yards from the enemy's trenches, and its embarkation on open beaches, every part of which were within effective range of Turkish guns, and from which in winds from the south or south-west, the withdrawal of troops was not possible.

The attitude which we should adopt from a naval and military point of view in case of withdrawal from the Peninsula being ordered, had given me much anxious thought. According to text-book principles and the lessons to be gathered from history it seemed essential that this operation of evacuation should be immediately preceded by a combined naval and military feint in the vicinity of the Peninsula, with a view to distracting the attention of the Turks from our intention. When endeavouring to work out into concrete fact how such principles could be applied to the situation of our Forces, I came to the conclusion that our chances of success were infinitely more probable if we made no departure of any kind from the normal life which we were following both on sea and on land. A feint which did not fully fulfil its purpose would have been worse than useless, and there was the obvious danger that the suspicion of the Turks would be aroused by our adoption of a course, the real purport of which could not have been long disguised.

On the 8th December, consequent on your Lordship's orders, I directed the General Officer Commanding Dardanelles Army to proceed with the evacuation of Suvla and Anzac at once.

Rapidity of action was imperative, having in view the unsettled weather which might be expected in the Ægean. The success of our operations was entirely dependent on weather conditions. Even a mild wind from the south or south-west was found to raise such a ground swell as to greatly impede communication with the beaches, while anything in the nature of a gale from this direction could not fail to break up the piers, wreck the small craft, and thus definitely prevent any steps being taken towards withdrawal.

We had, moreover, during the gale of the 21st November, learnt how entirely we were at the mercy of the elements with the slender and inadequate means at our disposal by which we had endeavoured to improvise harbours and piers. On that day the harbour at Kephalos was completely wrecked, one of the ships which had been sunk to form a breakwater was broken up, and the whole of the small craft sheltered inside the breakwater were washed ashore. Similar damage was done to our piers, lighters and small craft at Suvla and Anzac.

Lieutenant-General Birdwood proceeded on receipt of his orders with the skill and promptitude which is characteristic of all that he undertakes, and after consultation with Rear-Admiral Wemyss, it was decided, provided the weather was propitious, to complete the evacuation on the night of the 19th-20th December.

Throughout the period 10th to 18th December the withdrawal proceeded under the most auspicious conditions, and the morning of the 18th December found the positions both at Anzac and Suvla reduced to the numbers determined, while the evacuation of guns, animals, stores and supplies had continued most satisfactorily.

The arrangements for the final withdrawal made by Corps Commanders were as follows:—

It was imperative, of course, that the front line trenches should be held, however lightly, until the very last moment and that the withdrawal from these trenches should be simultaneous throughout the line. To ensure this being done, Lieutenant-General Sir W. Birdwood arranged that the withdrawal of the inner flanks of corps should be conducted to a common embarking area under the orders of the G. O. C., 9th Corps.

In the rear of the front line trenches at Suvla the General Officer Commanding 9th Corps broke up his area into two sections divided roughly by the Salt Lake. In the Southern Section a defensive line had been prepared from the Salt Lake to the sea and Lala Baba had been prepared for defence, on the left the second line ran from Kara Kol Dagh through Hill 10 to the Salt Lake. These lines were only to be held in case of emergency—the principle governing the withdrawal being that the troops should proceed direct from the trenches to the distributing centres near the Beach, and that no intermediate positions should be occupied except in case of necessity.

At Anzac, owing to the proximity of the trenches to the Beach, no second position was prepared except at Anzac Cove, where a small keep was arranged to cover the withdrawal of the rearmost parties in case of necessity.

The good fortune which had attended the evacuation continued during the night of the 19th-20th. The night was perfectly calm with a slight haze over the moon, an additional stroke of good luck, as there was a full moon on that night.

Soon after dark the covering ships were all in position, and the final withdrawal began. At 1-30 A.M the withdrawal of the rear parties commenced from the front trenches at Suvla and the left of Anzac. Those on the right of Anzac who were nearer the Beach remained in position until 2 A.M. By 5-30 A.M. the last man had quitted the trenches.

At Anzac, 4 18-pounder guns, 2 5-inch howitzers, one 4.7 Naval gun, 1 anti-aircraft, and 2 3-pounder Hotchkiss guns were left, but they were destroyed before the troops finally embarked. In addition, 56 mules, a certain number of carts, mostly stripped of their wheels, and some supplies which were set on fire, were also abandoned.

At Suvla every gun, vehicle and animal was embarked, and all that remained was a small stock of supplies which were burnt.

Early in December orders had been issued for the withdrawal of the French troops on Helles, other than their artillery, and a portion of the line held by French Creoles had already been taken over by the Royal Naval Division on the 12th December. On the 21st December, having strengthened the 8th Corps with the 86th Brigade, the number of the French garrison doing duty on the Peninsula was reduced to 4,000 men. These it was hoped to relieve early in January, but before doing so it was necessary to give some respite from trench work to the 42nd Division, which was badly in need of a rest. My intention, therefore, was first to relieve the 42nd Division by the 88th Brigade, then to bring up the 13th Division, which was resting at Imbros since the evacuation of Suvla, in place of the 29th Division, and finally to bring up the 11th Division in relief of the French. Helles would then be held by the 52nd, 11th and 13th Divisions, with the Royal Naval Division and the 42nd Division in reserve on adjacent islands.

On the 24th December, General Sir W. Birdwood was directed to make all preliminary preparations for immediate evacuation, in the event of orders to this effect being received.

On 28th December Your Lordship's telegram ordering the evacuation of Helles was received, whereupon, in view of the possibility of bad weather intervening, I instructed the General Officer Commanding Dardanelles Army to complete the operation as rapidly as possible. He was reminded that every effort conditional on not exposing the personnel to undue risk should be made to save all 60-pounder and 18-pounder guns, 6-inch and 4·5 howitzers, with their ammunition and other accessories, such as mules and A. T. carts, limbered waggons, etc. In addition, I expressed my wish that the final evacuation should be completed in one night, and that the troops should withdraw direct from the front trenches to the beaches, and not occupy any intermediate position unless seriously molested. At a meeting which was attended by the Vice-Admiral and the General Officer Commanding Dardanelles Army, I explained the course which I thought we should adopt to again deceive the Turks as to our intentions. The situation on the Peninsula had not materially changed owing to our withdrawal from Suvla and Anzac, except that there was a marked increased activity in aerial reconnaissance over our positions, and the islands of Mudros and Imbros, and that hostile patrolling of our trenches was more frequent and daring. The most apparent factor was that the number of heavy guns on the European and Asiatic shores had been considerably augmented, and that these guns were more liberally supplied with German ammunition, the result of which was that our beaches were continuously shelled, especially from the Asiatic shore. I gave it as my opinion that in my judgment I did not regard a feint as an operation offering any prospect of success. Time, the uncertainty of weather conditions in the Ægean, the absence of a suitable locality, and the withdrawal of small craft from the main issue for such an operation were some of the reasons which influenced me in the decision at which I arrived. With the concurrence of the Vice-Admiral, therefore, it was decided the Navy should do their utmost to pursue a course of retaliation against the Turkish Batteries, but to refrain from any unusually aggressive attitude should the Turkish guns remain quiescent.

General Sir W. Birdwood had, in anticipation of being ordered to evacuate Helles, made such complete and far-seeing arrangements that he was able to proceed without delay to the issue of the comprehensive orders which the consummation of such a delicate operation in war requires.

He primarily arranged with General Brulard, who commanded the French Forces on the Peninsula, that in order to escape the disadvantages of divided command in the final stage, the French Infantry should be relieved as early as possible, but that their artillery should pass under the orders of the General Officer Commanding, 8th Corps, and be withdrawn concurrently with the British guns at the opportune moment.

On the 30th December, in consequence of the instructions I had received from the Chief of the General Staff to hand over my command at Alexandria to Lieutenant-General Sir A. Murray, who, it was stated, was to leave England on the 28th December, I broke up my Headquarters at Mudros and proceeded with a small staff, comprising representatives of the General Staff, the Quartermaster-General and Adjutant-General's branches, on H.M.S. "Cornwallis" to Alexandria. The rest of the Staff were sent on in front so as to have offices in working order when my successor should arrive.

In the meantime the evacuation, following the same system as was practised at Suvla and Anzac, proceeded without delay. The French Infantry remaining on the Peninsula were relieved on the night of the 1st-2nd January, and were embarked by the French Navy on the following nights. Progress, however, was slower than had been hoped, owing to delays caused by accident and the weather. One of our largest horse ships was sunk by a French battleship, whereby the withdrawal was considerably retarded, and at the same time strong winds sprang up which interfered materially with work on the beaches. The character of the weather now setting in offered so little hope of a calm period of any duration, that General Sir W. Birdwood arranged with Admiral Sir J. de Robeck for the assistance of some destroyers in order to accelerate the progress of re-embarkation. They then determined to fix the final stage of the evacuation for the 8th January, or for the first fine night after that date.

Meanwhile the 8th Corps had maintained the offensive spirit in bombing and minor operations with which they had established the moral superiority they enjoyed over the enemy. On the 29th December the 52nd Division completed the excellent work which they had been carrying out for so long by capturing a considerable portion of the Turkish trenches, and by successfully holding these in the face of repeated counter-attacks. The shelling of our trenches and beaches, however, increased in frequency and intensity, and the average daily casualties continued to increase.

The method of evacuation adopted by Lieutenant-General Sir F. J. Davies, K.C.B., Commanding 8th Corps, followed in general outline that which had proved successful in the Northern Zone. As the removal of the whole of the heavy guns capable of replying to the enemy's artillery would have indicated our intentions to the enemy, it was decided to retain, but eventually destroy, one 6-inch British gun and six French heavy guns of old pattern which it would be impossible to remove on the last night. General Brulard himself suggested the destruction of these French guns.

The first step taken as regards the withdrawal of the troops was the formation of a strong Embarkation Staff and the preparation of positions covering the landings, in which small garrisons could maintain themselves against attack for a short time should the enemy become aware of our intention and follow up the movement.

Major-General the Hon. H. A. Lawrence, commanding the 52nd Division, was selected to take charge of all embarkation operations At the same time the services of various staff officers were placed at the disposal of the General Officer Commanding, 8th Corps, and they rendered very valuable assistance.

The General Officer Commanding, 13th Division, selected and prepared a position covering Gully Beach. Other lines were selected and entrenched, covering the remainder of the beaches from the sea north of Sedd-el-Bahr to "X" Beach inclusive. Garrisons were detailed for these defences, those at Gully Beach being under the General Officer Commanding, 13th Division, and those covering the remainder of the beaches being placed under the command of a selected officer, whose headquarters were established at an early date, together with those of the General Officer Commanding, Embarkation, at Corps Headquarters.

As the withdrawing troops passed within the line of these defences they came under the orders of the General Officer Commanding, Embarkation, which were conveyed to them by his staff officers at each beach.

In addition to these beach defences four lines of defence were arranged, three being already in existence and strongly wired. The fourth was a line of posts extending from De Tott's Battery on the east to the position covering Gully Beach on the west.

The time fixed for the last parties to leave the front trenches was 11-45 P.M., in order to permit the majority of the troops being already embarked before the front line was vacated. It was calculated that it would take between two and three hours for them to reach the beaches, at the conclusion of which time the craft to embark them would be ready.

The Naval arrangements for embarkation were placed in the hands of Captain C.M. Staveley, R.N., assisted by a staff of Naval officers at each place of embarkation.

On the 7th January the enemy developed heavy artillery fire on the trenches held by the 13th Division, while the Asiatic guns shelled those occupied by the Royal Naval Division. The bombardment, which was reported to be the heaviest experienced since we landed in April, lasted from noon until 5 P.M., and was intensive between 3 P.M. and 3-30. Considerable damage was done to our parapets and communication trenches, and telephone communications were interrupted. At 3-30 P.M. two Turkish mines were sprung near Fusilier Bluff, and the Turkish trenches were seen to be full of men whom their officers appeared to be urging to the assault. No attack, however, was developed except against Fusilier Bluff, where a half-hearted assault was quickly repulsed. Our shortage of artillery at this time was amply compensated for by the support received from fire of the supporting squadron under Captain D. L. Dent, R.N. Our casualties amounted to 2 officers and 56 other ranks killed, and 4 officers and 102 other ranks wounded.

The 8th January was a bright, calm day, with a light breeze from the south. There was every indication of the continuance of favourable conditions, and, in the opinion of the Meteorological Officer, no important change was to be expected for at least 24 hours. The Turkish artillery were unusually inactive. All preparations for the execution of the final stage were complete.

The embarkation was fixed at such an hour that the troops detailed for the first trip might be able to leave their positions after dark. The second trip was timed so that at least a greater portion of the troops for this trip would, if all went well, be embarked before the final parties had left the front trenches. The numbers to be embarked at the first trip were fixed by the maximum that could be carried by the craft available, those of the second trip being reduced in order to provide for the possibility of casualties occurring amongst the craft required to carry them.

The numbers for the third trip consisted only of the parties left to hold front trenches to the last, together with the garrisons of the beach defences, the Naval and Military beach personnel and such R. E. personnel as might be required to effect the necessary repairs to any piers or harbour works that might be damaged.

About 7 P.M. the breeze freshened considerably from the south-west, the most unfavourable quarter, but the first trip, timed for 8 p.m., was despatched without difficulty. The wind, however, continued to rise until, by 11 p.m., the connecting pier between the hulks and the shore at "W" Beach was washed away by heavy seas, and further embarkation into destroyers from these hulks became impracticable. In spite of these difficulties the second trips, which commenced at 11-30 P.M., were carried out well up to time, and the embarkation of guns continued uninterruptedly. Early in the evening reports had been received from the right flank that a hostile submarine was believed to be moving down the Straits, and about midnight H.M.S. "Prince George," which had embarked 2,000 men, and was sailing for Mudros, reported she was struck by a torpedo which failed to explode The indications of the presence of a submarine added considerably to the anxiety for the safety of the troop carriers, and made it necessary for the Vice-Admiral to modify the arrangements made for the subsequent bombardment of the evacuated positions.

At 1-50 A.M., Gully Beach reported that the embarkation at that beach was complete, and that the lighters were about to push off, but at 2-10 A.M. a telephone message was received that one of the lighters was aground and could not be refloated. The N.T.O. at once took all possible steps to have another lighter sent in to Gully Beach, and this was, as a matter of fact, done within an hour, but in the meantime at 2-30 A.M. it was decided to move the 160 men, who had been relanded from the grounded lighter, to "W" Beach and embark them there.

From 2-40 A.M. the steadily increasing swell caused the N.T.O. the greatest anxiety as to the possibility of embarking the remainder of the troops if their arrival was much deferred.

At 3-30 A.M. the evacuation was complete, and abandoned heaps of stores and supplies were successfully set on fire by time fuzes after the last man had embarked. Two magazines of ammunition and explosives were also successfully blown up at 4 A.M. These conflagrations were apparently the first intimation received by the Turks that we had withdrawn. Red lights were immediately discharged from the enemy's trenches, and heavy artillery fire opened on our trenches and beaches. This shelling was maintained until about 6-30 A.M.

Apart from four unserviceable fifteen-pounders which had been destroyed earlier in the month, 10 worn-out fifteen-pounders, 1 six inch Mark VII gun and 6 old heavy French guns, all of which were previously blown up, were left on the Peninsula. In addition to the above, 508 animals, most of which were destroyed, and a number of vehicles and considerable quantities of stores, material, and supplies, all of which were destroyed by burning, had to eb abandoned.

It would have been possible, of course, by extending the period during which the process of evacuation proceeded to have reduced the quantity of stores and material that was left behind on the Peninsula, but not to the degree that may seem apparent at first sight. Our chances of enjoying a continuity of fine weather in the Ægean were very slender in the month of January; it was indeed a contingency that had to be reckoned with that we might very probably be visited by a spell of bad weather which would cut us off completely from the Peninsula for a fortnight or perhaps for even longer.

Supplies, ammunition and material to a certain degree had, therefore to be left to the last moment for fear of the isolation of the garrison at any moment when the evacuation might be in progress I decided therefore that our aim should be primarily the withdrawal of the bulk of the personnel, artillery and ammunition in the intermediate period, and that no risks should be taken in prolonging the withdrawal of personnel at the final stage with a view to reducing the quantity of stores left.

The entire evacuation of the Peninsula had now been completed. It demanded for its successful realisation two important military essentials, viz., good luck and skilled disciplined organisation, and they were both forthcoming to a marked degree at the hour needed. Our luck was in the ascendant by the marvellous spell of calm weather which prevailed. But we were able to turn to the fullest advantage these accidents of fortune.

Lieutenant-General Sir W. Birdwood and his Corps Commanders elaborated and prepared the orders in reference to the evacuation with a skill, competence and courage which could not have been surpassed, and we had a further stroke of good fortune in being associated with Vice-Admiral Sir J. de Robeck, K.C.B., Vice-Admiral Wemyss, and a body of Naval Officers whose work remained throughout this anxious period at that standard of accuracy and professional ability which is beyond the power of criticism or cavil.

The Line of Communication Staff, both Naval and Military, represented respectively by Lieutenant-General E. A. Altham, C.B., C.M.G., Commodore M. S. FitzMaurice, R. N., Principal Naval Transport Officer, and Captain H. V. Simpson, R.N., Superintending Transport Officer, contributed to the success of the operation by their untiring zeal and conspicuous ability.

The members of the Headquarters Staff showed themselves, without exception, to be officers with whom it was a privilege to be associated; their competence, zeal and devotion to duty were uniform and unbroken. Amongst such a highly trained body of officers it is difficult to select and discriminate. I confine myself, therefore, to placing on record the fine services rendered by—

Colonel (temporary Major-General) Arthur Lynden Lynden-Bell, C.B., C.M.G., Chief of General Staff, G.H.Q;

Colonel (temporary Major-General) Walter Campbell, C.B., D.S.O., Deputy Quartermaster-General, G.H.Q., M.E.F.;

Lieutenant-Colonel (temporary Brigadier-General) W. Gillman, C.M.G., D.S.O., Brigadier-General, General Staff;

Brevet Major (temporary Lieutenant-Colonel) G. P. Dawnay, D.S.O., M.V.O., General Staff; and whilst bringing to notice the names of these officers to whom I am so much indebted, I trust I may be permitted to represent the loyal, cordial, and unswerving assistance rendered by General J. M. J. A. Brulard, Commanding the French Troops in the Peninsula.

Before concluding this inadequate account of the events which happened during my tenure of command of the Forces in the Eastern Mediterranean, I desire to give a brief explanation of the work which was carried out on the Line of Communications, and to place on record my appreciation of the admirable work rendered by the officers responsible for this important service.

On the Dardanelles Peninsula it may be said that the whole of the machinery by which the text-books contemplate the maintenance and supply of an army was non-existent. The zone commanded by the enemy's guns extended not only to the landing places on the Peninsula, but even over the sea in the vicinity.

The beaches were the advanced depôts and refilling points at which the services of supply had to be carried out under artillery fire. The landing of stores as well as of troops was only possible under cover of darkness.

The sea, the ships, lighters and tugs took, in fact, the place of railways and roads, with their railway trains, mechanical transport, etc., but with this difference, that the use of the latter is subject only to the intervention of the enemy, while that of the former was dependent on the weather

Between the beaches and the Base at Alexandria, 800 miles to the south, the Line of Communications had but two harbours, Kephalos Bay on the island of Imbros, 15 miles roughly from the beaches, and Mudros Bay, at a distance of 60 miles. In neither were there any piers, breakwaters, wharves or store houses of any description before the advent of the troops. On the shores of these two bays there were no roads of any military value, or buildings fit for military usage. The water supply at these islands was, until developed, totally inadequate for our needs.

The Peninsula landing places were open beaches. Kephalos Bay is without protection from the north, and swept by a high sea in northerly gales In Mudros Harbour, transhipments and disembarkations were often seriously impeded with a wind from the north or south. These difficulties were accentuated by the advent of submarines in the Ægean Sea, on account of which the Vice-Admiral deemed it necessary to prohibit any transport or store ship exceeding 1,500 tons proceeding north of Mudros, and although this rule was relaxed in the case of supply ships proceeding within the netted area of Suvla, it necessitated the trans-shipment of practically all reinforcements, stores and supplies—other than those for Suvla—into small ships in Mudros Harbour.

At Suvla and Anzac, disembarkation could only be effected by lighters and tugs, thus for all personnel and material there was at least one trans-shipment, and for the greater portion of both two trans-shipments.

Yet notwithstanding the difficulties which have been set forth above, the Army was well maintained in equipment and ammunition. It was well fed, it received its full supply of winter clothing at the beginning of December. The evacuation of the sick and wounded was carried out with the minimum of inconvenience, and the provision of hospital accommodation for them on the Dardanelles Line of Communication and elsewhere in the Mediterranean met all requirements.

The above is a very brief exposition of the extreme difficulties with which the officers responsible were confronted in dealing with a problem of peculiar complexity. They were fortunate in being associated in their onerous and anxious task with a most competent and highly trained Naval Staff. The members of the two staffs worked throughout in perfect harmony and cordiality, and it was owing to their joint efforts that the requirements of the troops were so well responded to.

In accordance with the instructions received from your Lordship by telegram on 10th January 1916, I had the honour of telegraphing the names of the undermentioned officers who rendered most valuable and distinguished service in connection with the evacuation of Gallipoli, to be specially submitted for His Majesty's gracious consideration for promotion and reward, viz.:—

WHEREAS an emergency has arisen which renders it necessary to provide further power to prohibit or restrict the import and export of goods to and from British India;

Now, therefore, in exercise of the power conferred by section 72 of the Government of India Act, 1915, the Governor General is pleased to make and promulgate the following Ordinance:—

5 & 6 Geo. 5, c. 61.

ORDINANCE No. IV OF 1916.

4. Where, by a notification issued under section 3, the import or export of any goods is prohibited or restricted, such goods shall be deemed to be goods of which the import or export has been prohibited or restricted under section 19 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, and the provisions of the said Act shall have effect accordingly:

Provided that, in any proceedings for the adjudication of confiscation of any goods to which the provisions of any notification under this Ordinance is alleged to apply, the goods shall be deemed to be goods of which the import or export has been so prohibited or restricted, as the case may be, unless the contrary is proved.

PUBLIC DEBT.

Simla, the 15th June, 1916.

No. 449-A.—The attention of holders of Government promissory notes, who hold these as an investment of more or less permanence, is invited to the advantages afforded by the system of Inscribed Stock, i.e., the registration of holdings in the Book Debt Account maintained by the Public Debt Office. Under this system non-transferable stock certificates are issued to each holder in respect of the amount of debt registered in his name.

The essence of the system is that it gives absolute security. A stock certificate is transferable, not by endorsement, but only by a separate transfer deed executed by the holder or his duly constituted attorney and registered by him, or by such attorney, in the books of the Public Debt Office. A stock certificate is consequently of no value in the hands of a wrongful holder and the risk arising from the possession of negotiable securities is thereby avoided. In the event of the loss of a stock certificate by theft, fire, etc., a fresh certificate is issued on satisfactory evidence of loss.

There is also free convertibility between stock certificates and Government promissory notes. A holder of a stock certificate wishing to reconvert the whole or any portion of the sum it represents into promissory notes of the appropriate loan may always do so, vide clause 6 below

A further advantage is that the holders of stock certificates are not required to present them in person or by agent when the interest becomes due, vide clauses 11 and 12 below.

Registration and issue of Stock Certificates.

2. Promissory notes of any current rupee loan of the Government of India may, at the option of a holder, be registered in Book Debt Account, non-transferable stock certificates being issued in lieu. A subscriber to a new loan may similarly elect to hold the amount allotted to him, or any part of it, in the form of Book Debt.

3. A holder of Government promissory notes desiring to convert them into Book Debt should surrender them either at the Public Debt Office, Bank of Bengal, Bombay or Madras, or at the treasury at which interest is payable, together with a written application, forms of which are always available at the Banks of Bengal, Bombay and Madras, or may be obtained through any Treasury Officer. Each promissory note so tendered should be endorsed "Pay to His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General of India in Council." (For a specimen form of application vide form No. 27, Civil Account Code.)

4. The holder will receive in exchange for the consolidated amount of such notes a stock certificate of the loan to which the notes appertain. If the notes belong to one or more of the $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent loans, the holder may, subject to the general conditions governing transfers between these loans, obtain a stock certificate of any other $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent loan into which transfer is admissible and into which he may desire to transfer his holding.

5. No fee will be charged on the issue, enfacement or renewal of a stock certificate.

Conversion into Promissory Notes.

6. A holder of a stock certificate wishing to convert the whole or any portion of the sum represented by it, into promissory notes of the loan to which it relates, may do so by tendering it either at the Public Debt Office (Bank of Bengal, Bombay or Madras), or at the treasury at which interest is payable endorsed thus :—

> "Received in lieu of this stock certificate Government promissory notes of Rs..........each, together with a new stock certificate for the balance amounting to Rs.......... "

Promissory notes are, however, issued only in sums of Rs. 100 or in multiples of that sum, and a fee of four annas per cent is chargeable on each note issued in lieu of the certificate if the value of the note does not exceed Rs. 400 and of Re. 1 per note if the value exceeds that sum.

Sale or transfer of Stock.

7. All sales or transfers of Government stock registered in the Book Debt Account must be made in even hundreds of rupees, and by transfer to be executed by the registered holder or his duly constituted attorney and registered in the books of the Public Debt Office, Bank of Bengal, Bombay or Madras. Such transfers are exempt from stamp duty. A blank form of deed of transfer is printed on the back of each stock certificate issued. Forms of special powers of attorney for effecting sales can be obtained free of charge from the Bank of Bengal, Bombay or Madras, directly or through any Treasury Officer.

8. When it is desired to execute a transfer, the original certificate must be lodged at the Public Debt Office (Bank of Bengal, Bombay or Madras). When this has been done and when the transfer has been duly registered, the transferee will receive a new certificate. The Public Debt Office may, in cases in which this is considered necessary, require the verification of the transferor's signature before a Treasury Officer or other responsible officer of Government.

In cases where only a portion of the stock is transferred, the purchaser will receive a certificate for an amount corresponding to the portion transferred, and a new certificate for the balance will be issued to the transferor.

Transfer to London.

9. Proprietors of stock certificates who may be desirous of transferring the whole or any portion of the amount to England can, on application, obtain from the Public Debt Office (Bank of Bengal, Bombay or Madras), a non-transferable certificate, on production of which at the Bank of England the amount of stock so advised will be registered in the name of the payee and a certificate issued for the same.

In respect of each such non-transferable certificate issued by the Public Debt Office a charge will be made at the rate of Re. 1 for every Rs. 5,000 or part of it.

Payment of Interest.

10. Warrants for the interest due on Registered Debt are issued by the Public Debt Office and may be made payable at the Government treasury, Calcutta, Bombay or Madras or at any other Government treasury, or at the head post office at the headquarters of a Native State where there is no civil treasury.

The warrants will be paid on presentation at the treasury or post office on which they are made payable.

11. In the absence of any special arrangement, the interest warrant will, if payable at the Government treasury at Calcutta, Bombay or Madras, be delivered, on or after due date, to the registered proprietor or his agent or to the bearer of a letter from either of them on personal application for it. If it is payable at a treasury, it will be sent to such treasury and will be similarly delivered by the Treasury Officer to the registered proprietor or his agent or to the bearer of a letter from either of them.

But, if preferred, the warrant will be sent by post to the registered proprietor or his agent at any address desired. The proprietor should specify the treasury at which he wishes the interest to be made payable. The necessary information should be given in a written application, and this will be acted upon until it is revoked.

12. Stock certificates may be held by two or more persons jointly and any one or more of them can receive interest thereon under a joint holders' power of attorney which is free from stamp duty.

Forms (vide form No. 23, Civil Account Code) of such powers are procurable from the Public Debt Offices or Government treasuries.

Form of Certificate.

13. The form in which stock certificates will be issued under this Notification is given below. A blank form of transfer deed and a summary of the above rules will also be printed on the stock certificates.

14. This Notification supersedes the Notification issued by the Government of India, Finance and Commerce Department, No. 6318-A., dated the 28th December 1894.

Supplement dated the 13th May 1916, to the "London Gazette" of the 12th May 1916, pages 4809 and 4810.

War Office,

13th May 1916.

His Majesty the KING has been graciously pleased to confer the Victoria Cross on No. 501 Lance-Naik Lala, 41st Dogras, Indian Army, for most conspicuous bravery.

Finding a British officer of another regiment lying close to the enemy, he dragged him into a temporary shelter, which he himself had made, and in which he had already bandaged four wounded men.

After bandaging his wounds he heard calls from the Adjutant of his own regiment who was lying in the open severely wounded. The enemy were not more than one hundred yards distant, and it seemed certain death to go out in that direction, but Lance-Naik Lala insisted on going out to his Adjutant, and offered to crawl back with him on his back at once. When this was not permitted, he stripped off his own clothing to keep the wounded officer warmer, and stayed with him till just before dark, when he returned to the shelter.

After dark he carried the first wounded officer back to the main trenches, and then, returning with a stretcher, carried back his Adjutant.

He set a magnificent example of courage and devotion to his officers.

E. D. MACLAGAN,
Secretary to the Government of India.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Rainfall summary for the seven days ending at 8 hrs. on Thursday, the 15th June 1916, based on the Indian Daily Weather Reports of the period.

The Arabian Sea monsoon was fairly active in the Peninsula and also gave rain in Rajputana and Central India. Easterly winds from the Bay produced rain in the United Provinces and, in conjunction with a slight disturbance in the extreme northwest, in the Punjab and the North-West Frontier Province.

The chief factor in the week's rainfall, however, was a storm which formed at the head of the Bay, crossed the coast into deltaic Bengal on the 11th and after remaining nearly stationary for two days moved slowly westwards. It was in the neighbourhood of Pendra on the morning of the 15th. It gave moderate to heavy rain on the Arakan coast, in lower Bengal, Orissa, Chota Nagpur and the Central Provinces.

2. Burma.—Nearly general rain fell every day in Lower Burma, and on the 11th in Upper Burma.

Northeast India, including Orissa.—Rainfall was nearly general in Bengal on the 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th and 14th, in Orissa every day except the 8th, and in Chota Nagpur from the 10th to the 14th.

The United Provinces, Central India and the Central Provinces.—There was nearly general rain in the east of the United Provinces on the 8th and 9th, in Central India West on the 10th and 11th, in the west of the Central Provinces on the 8th, 9th, 10th, 13th, and 14th and in the east of the Central Provinces on the 10th, 13th, and 14th.

Northwest India.—Local falls of rain were reported, chiefly from the east and north Punjab and east Rajputana.

The Peninsula.—Nearly general rainfall occurred daily on the west coast, on the 8th, 9th, and 14th in north Hyderabad, on the 11th in south Hyderabad and the Madras Deccan, and on the 10th on the north Madras coast.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 10th June 1916.

Burma.—The rainfall during the week was well distributed and mostly heavy. Ploughing for winter rice in Lower Burma and agricultural operations for early sesamum, cotton and juar in Upper Burma are progressing in irrigated areas. Ploughing for winter rice has commenced. Standing crops are doing well. Cattle are healthy. The price of unhusked rice at Rangoon has risen slightly to rupees 111 per hundred baskets and is a little below normal. The market for white rice is steady.

Assam.—The weather is hot. Light to moderate rain has fallen in all districts but agricultural operations have been retarded in some for want of sufficient rain. Sowing of cotton and harvesting of potatoes in the Khasi and Jaintia Hills, ploughing of land for winter rice, sowing of autumn and winter rice and jute, plucking and manufacture of tea and planting of sugarcane are in progress. Harvesting of early autumn rice continues in Goalpara and has begun in Kamrup. Transplantation of winter rice has begun in places. Red spider blight on tea is reported from Sylhet. Floods in Kamrup are subsiding rapidly. Prospects of autumn rice are fair and those of tea are poor in Nowgong and moderate to good elsewhere. The price of common rice is practically stationary. Cattle disease is reported from seven districts.

Bengal.—During the week moderate to heavy rain fell throughout the province, doing immense good to standing crops and facilitating agricultural operations Sowing of autumn paddy has been nearly finished but that of jute is still in progress in western Bengal. Sowing of winter paddy for seedlings has commenced in places. Scarcity of fodder and water previously reported from some western districts has been much relieved by the recent rainfall. The average price of common rice for the Province has risen by about 17 per cent. as compared with that of the previous week.

The weekly report on the famine and scarcity in Bengal is as follows:—

Bankura District.—The state of affairs in the affected areas is generally unchanged but conditions are improving. Sowings have been commenced in consequence of the rain The condition of people on the works is generally good and relief measures are adequate. People are freely resorting to the works. Loans are being freely advanced. Fodder is still scarce. Relief is being given by private charitable funds. Prices are stationary. The price of rice is 8 seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 17754 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 25628—total 43382. The decrease in the numbers on works is due to the commencement of agricultural operations. 7724 persons were relieved on private works.

Tippera District.—The rainfall during the week improved the prospects of standing crops Distress is likely to continue till harvesting of paddy. Relief measures are adequate The public health is good. No wandering or emaciation is reported. Assistance is being given by private charitable funds. The price of rice is 7 seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 2991 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 5012—total 8003.

Bihar and Orissa.—Moderate to heavy rain was fairly general in Bihar and Orissa. In Chota Nagpur the rainfall was generally light. The recent rain has facilitated agricultural operations and has been beneficial to the standing crops which are doing well. Sowing of paddy and other autumn crops is going on. The average price of common rice has risen slightly as compared with that of the preceding week. Cattle disease is reported from ten districts. The supply of fodder and water is generally sufficient. The attendance of persons on test works in Singhbhum was 11,083 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 1,513 in Manbhum. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory states of Orissa is good.

United Provinces.—General rain has fallen throughout the province. The fall was heavy in the Himalayan, south of Oudh, lower Doab and Bundelkhand districts. Sugarcane is being weeded and irrigated in places. Operations for autumn crops are in full swing. The condition of standing crops is good. Fodder and pasture are sufficient throughout the province except in parts of Agra and Muttra. Agricultural stock is doing well and there is very little cattle disease. Prices continue to rise in many districts.

Punjab.—Light or moderate rain has fallen in all the reporting districts. It was beneficial to standing crops and autumn sowings but more rain is wanted everywhere.

Sowings of cotton, sugarcane and other autumn crops continue and are restricted in the southeast and west and normal elsewhere. The condition of standing extra spring and autumn crops is average to good on irrigated and generally below average on unirrigated areas. Cattle are generally healthy but are weak in some districts owing to scarcity of fodder and overwork. Water for drinking and irrigation is generally sufficient but shortage of canal water is reported from parts of the southeast. Prices are generally stationary and in the case of wheat range between normal and warning rates and in other cases between warning and scarcity rates. Price of wheat:—Rawalpindi 10½, Lahore 11½, Ambala 12 and Ferozepore and Lyallpur 12½ seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—Rain fell during the week throughout the Province. The weather is hot. The condition of standing crops both on irrigated and unirrigated areas is average everywhere except in Dera Ismail Khan where unirrigated crops are reported to be poor. Harvesting of spring crops continues with outturn average. Sowings of autumn crops are proceeding. The condition of cattle is generally good except in unirrigated tracts of the Lakki tahsil of the Bannu district where it is bad. Fodder and water are sufficient except in unirrigated tracts of the Lakki tahsil and in the Dera Ismail Khan district. Fodder is reported to be dear and water scarce in some villages. The public health is good. Prices are high. Prices of barley in Peshawar and of gram in Dera Ismail Khan are falling while those of wheat, gram, barley and maize in Bannu and of bajra in Dera Ismail Khan are rising slightly.

Jammu.—Slight rain fell in some parts. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 8 to 12 and maize from 10 to 18 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is average on the whole. There is no cattle disease. Fodder is insufficient.

Kashmir.—No rain fell during the week. Standing crops are in good condition. Agricultural operations in connexion with autumn crops are in progress. Cattle are generally healthy. Prices are normal. Water and fodder are sufficient.

Rajputana.—The weather was generally hot and cloudy. The rainfall was general in Rajputana and scattered in Ajmer-Merwara. The maximum falls in cents were:—Marwar 104, Jaisalmer 100, Udaipur 72, Shahpura 44, hill tracts 40, Banswara 54, Partabgarh 214, Kotah 270, Jhalawar 231, Bharatpur 50, Bikaner 303. In week ending 3rd sowing commenced in certain places. Fodder scarcity is reported in almost all states and Ajmer-Merwara. The condition of cattle is very poor and cattle disease is reported from Dungarpur, Banswara, Kotah and in a few villages in Mewar. Water is generally sufficient. Prices are high and stationary but tend to rise. The number of persons on test works in Kishengarh was 6,578 and in Karauli 1,291.

The weekly report on scarcity in Merwara is as follows:—With the advent of rain distress is slightly decreasing among agriculturists and labourers. There was no wandering or influx of foreigners except Marwaris who are returning to their homes with cattle via Merwara. The physical condition of people on relief works is satisfactory. Relief measures are adequate. The public health continues to be good but some cases of cholera occurred in Beawar town and one village. There were also a few cases of small pox in the Todgarh Tahsil. Prices are 10 seers per rupee. The number of persons on test works was 4200 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 1700, total 5900.

Central India.—The rainfall during the week was general in Bhopal and partial elsewhere, the principal falls being over 10 inches in Bundelkhand, over 3 inches in Khargone, Rutlam, Sitamau, Barwani, Jhabua and Alirajpur, over 2 inches in Dhar, Jobat and Manpur, over 1 inch in Indore, Garot, Kannod, Jaora, Sailana and Bagli, insufficient in Gwalior and Baghelkhand and sufficient in Bhopal, Bundelkhand and the Southern States. Land is being prepared for autumn crops everywhere and sowing has commenced in Bhopal and the Southern States. Standing crops are in good condition in Gwalior, Bhopal and Malwa. The probable outturn is normal in Gwalior and good in Bhopal, Bundelkhand and Malwa. The condition of the agricultural stock is fair in Malwa and good elsewhere. The fodder supply is fair in Malwa and sufficient elsewhere except in Gwalior where there is scarcity of fodder and water. Prices are normal in Baghelkhand, rising in Malwa and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—The weather was generally warm and cloudy with high winds. Light to moderate rain fell all over the Provinces, ranging from 39 cents in Drug to 5½ inches in Mandla. Ploughing of fields is proceeding rapidly everywhere and sowings have begun in parts of several districts. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient. Agricultural stock is in good condition. Variations in prices are unimportant.

Feudatory States.—Good showers were received in ten States. Preparation of lands and sowing are in progress.

Bombay.—Good rain fell during the week throughout the Presidency. Sowing of autumn crops generally continues. The fodder supply is deficient in parts of Sind, Kaira, Kathiawar, Cutch and Baroda. Agricultural stock is generally sufficient. Cattle are in good condition except in parts of Sind, Ahmedabad and Kaira. Drinking water is inadequate in parts of Larkana, Broach and Baroda. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY.

RESOLUTION.

Simla, the 12th June 1916.

The Government of India have had under consideration the question of the application to lascar seamen left behind by reason of illness in ports of the United Kingdom of the provisions stated in sections 34 and 35 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1906 (6 Edw. 7. C. 48), by which the owner of a ship is liable for the medical expenses and maintenance of members of his lascar crew left behind sick at a foreign port. As there should be no differentiation of treatment between the cases of seamen left behind by reason of illness, whether in the United Kingdom or other ports, the Governor General in Council is pleased to direct that the following stipulation shall be added before the last additional stipulation in the Form of Agreement for lascars prescribed in the Resolution in the Department of Commerce and Industry No. 4817-4822-5, dated the 4th July 1912 :—

" Additional stipulation which must be entered into and signed by the owner of the vessel or the master in his behalf :—

I hereby further agree that in the event of any of the said lascars being discharged or left behind at any port in the United Kingdom by reason of illness or incapacity (except venereal disease, or illness or incapacity due to his own wilful act or default or to his own misbehaviour), the expense of providing the necessary surgical and medical advice and attendance and medicine, and of his maintenance until he is cured, or dies, or is returned to a port in British India, and of his conveyance to the port if so returned, and in the case of death the expenses (if any) of his burial, shall be defrayed by me, without any deduction on that account from his wages."

ORDER—Ordered that a copy of the foregoing Resolution be forwarded to Local Maritime Governments in continuation of the Resolution in this Department No. 4117-4822-5, dated the 4th July 1912, for information and guidance, and also to the Director General of Commercial Intelligence, for information.

Ordered also that the Resolution be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India for general information.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 17th June 1916.

Burma.—The rainfall for the Province during the week was good and well distributed. Ploughing for winter rice and for upland crops is progressing. Sowings of nurseries for winter rice and early sasamum, cotton and groundnuts are proceeding. Standing crops are doing well. Cattle are healthy. The price of unhusked rice in Rangoon has risen further to Rs. 114 per hundred baskets and is slightly above the normal. The market for white rice is firmer.

Assam.—The weather was hot and generally unfavourable to standing crops. Light to moderate rain fell in all the districts. More rain is wanted in Surma Valley and in Kamrup, Darrang and Nowgong. Sowing of cotton and harvesting of potatoes in the Khasi and Jaintia hills, ploughing of land for winter rice, sowing and transplanting of autumn and winter rice, plucking and manufacture of tea and planting of sugarcane are in progress. Harvesting of early autumn rice is going on in places with fair outturn. Sowing of jute is finished in Nowgong and the Garo Hills. Prospects of the standing crops are fair but those of tea are poor in Nowgong. The price of common rice is practically stationary in eight districts.

Bengal.—During the week under report seasonable rain fell all over the Province. The sowings of autumn paddy and jute are still in progress in western Bengal, but are practically complete in eastern Bengal. Weeding is going on everywhere. The harvesting of early varieties of autumn paddy has begun in places. Preparation of lands for the next winter rice crop and the sowing of paddy seed beds are proceeding. The state and prospect of the autumn crops are on the whole fairly satisfactory in the eastern districts but are less so in the western districts. Cattle disease is reported from five districts. The average price of common rice for the Province has risen by about 0·8 per cent as compared with that of the previous week. Scarcity is reported from parts of the Chittagong Hill Tracts. Relief measures are being taken.

The weekly report on the famine and scarcity is as follows:—In the Bankura District the state of affairs in the affected areas is generally unchanged. The rainfall was general throughout the district. Winter and autumn paddy cultivation continues. The condition of people on works is generally good. Relief measures are adequate. Loans are being freely advanced. Private charitable funds are giving relief. Prices are stationary. The price of rice is 8 seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 7,254 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 24,864, total 32,118. The number of persons relieved on private works was 3,369. The decrease in the numbers on works is due to the rain.

In the Tippera District the rainfall during the week has improved the prospects of the standing crops but more rain is wanted for the autumn rice crop. Relief measures are adequate. The public health is good. The price of rice is 7 seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 3,059 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 5,462, total 8,521.

Bihar and Orissa.—During the week under report rain was general over the Province, the fall being somewhat heavy in Chota Nagpur and parts of Orissa and generally light in Bihar. Preparation of lands and sowing of autumn crops are in progress. Standing crops are doing well. The average price of common rice has slightly risen as compared with that of the preceding week. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient. Cattle disease is reported from nine districts. The attendance of persons on test works in Singhbhum was 11,379. Gratuitous relief was given to 3,264 persons in Manbhum. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa is good.

United Provinces.—Rain has again fallen throughout the Provinces and has been generally beneficial. Preparation and manuring of fields for autumn crops are in progress and sowing of cotton and other crops has commenced in places. Standing crops are generally doing well but the damage by the borer insect to the sugarcane crop in Rohilkhand is reported to be unusually serious. Very little cattle disease is reported and the condition of agricultural stock is satisfactory. Fodder continues to be dear in Aligarh and parts of Agra; elsewhere it is sufficient. Prices are practically stationary with a slight tendency to rise in a few districts.

Punjab.—Light or moderate rain was received in parts of the southeast and submontane tracts. Elsewhere weather was generally dry. The rain though beneficial to standing crops was generally insufficient for sowing and more is wanted everywhere. Sowings of cotton, fodder and other autumn crops continue and are restricted in parts of the southeast and west and are normal elsewhere. The condition of standing extra spring and autumn crops is average to good on irrigated area and generally below average on unirrigated area. Extra spring crops are being harvested in some districts with yield generally normal. Cattle are generally healthy but are weak in some districts owing to scarcity of fodder and overwork. Water for drinking and irrigation is generally sufficient but shortage of canal water is reported from parts of the southeast. Prices are generally stationary and in case of wheat range between normal and warning rates and in other cases between warning and scarcity rates. Prices of wheat :— Rawalpindi 10¾, Ambala, Ferozepore and Lahore 12 and Lyallpur 13¼ seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—The week was rainless and the weather hot and sultry. The condition of standing crops on irrigated areas is average and on unirrigated areas poor in Dera Ismail Khan district and average in Bannu. The condition of the standing autumn crops and extra spring crops is average in the Laki Tahsil. Harvesting of spring crops is proceeding with outturn average in the Bannu Tahsil. Sowing of rice and bajra is proceeding. Foot and mouth disease has appeared amongst cattle in certain villages but no deaths have been reported. Fodder is available but is dear in the Dera Ismail Khan district. The public health is good. The Paharpur canal is running. Prices of wheat, barley and maize are rising, that of gram falling and that of bajra stationary in Bannu and the prices of all food grains except bajra rising in Dera Ismail Khan.

Jammu.—Slight rain fell in some parts. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 8 to 12 and maize from 10 to 18 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is average on the whole. No cattle disease is reported. Fodder is rather insufficient..

Kashmir.—No rain fell during the week. The condition of standing crops is fair but they are wanting water badly. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are sufficien . Prices are high.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION.

MUSEUMS.

Simla, the 20th June 1916.

RESOLUTION.

The Government of India have had under their consideration for some time past a scheme for the constitution of a Zoological Survey of India on the basis of the Zoological and Anthropological Section of the Indian Museum, Calcutta. The scheme has recently been approved by the Secretary of State for India and His Excellency the Governor General in Council is pleased to publish the details for the information of local Governments and Administrations and the general public. The Survey will come into force on July 1st, 1916.

2. In March 1913 the Chairman of the Trustees of the Indian Museum forwarded a representation from the Superintendent of the Zoological and Anthropological Section of the Museum regarding the recognition of the Zoological Section as a Zoological Survey. The Government of India who had already under consideration the desirability of establishing on a sound basis a Zoological Survey of India informed the Trustees of the Museum that they would be prepared to consider a scheme for such a survey on lines somewhat similar to the existing Botanical Survey and asked to be furnished with the necessary details. The Trustees accordingly submitted their proposals at the end of September 1913. They represented that, though it had been definitely recognised in the past that field work and zoological research formed an important part of the official duties of the scientific officers of the Zoological and Anthropological Section of the Museum, both branches of work had been necessarily undertaken in a somewhat haphazard manner. Different officers had taken up the investigation of different groups of animals and had visited various parts of India and Burma in connection with their investigation without there being a definite programme drawn up each year or a comprehensive scheme of research instituted. In short, this part of the duties of the section had been in an experimental stage. They thought accordingly that the time had come to pass to further developments and suggested the establishment of a Zoological Survey. The detailed proposals of the Trustees were approved by the Board of Scientific Advice to whom they were submitted and the Government of India in recommending them to the Secretary of State in their Financial despatch no. 366, dated the 11th December 1915 urged the following additional considerations in support of the scheme:—" In the first place" they stated " since medicine, more specially tropical medicine, is intimately connected with certain branches of zoology, it is obvious that anything that furthers the interests of zoological research in this country will indirectly benefit medicine and sanitation materially. Secondly, outside interest in Indian zoology has increased in recent years and more attention is now devoted to it by individuals and societies in India. In the publication entitled—Records of the Indian Museum—35 original papers on zoology have been published since March 1914, of which 14 have been written in India. Ten contributors of notes or papers have been zoologists resident in this country who are not Members of the museum staff, while not less than five contributors have been Indians. Moreover, at the present time a survey of mammals is being carried on by the Bombay Natural History Society to which we have recently given a grant of Rs. 7,500."

3. The proposals as finally sanctioned by the Secretary of State are as follows:—

(a) The headquarters of the Survey will be the Indian Museum. The reports in recent years of the Zoological and Anthropological Section of the Indian Museum show that a good deal of zoological research work is already being done by the staff of the Section. The Museum has an excellent library and new and completely equipped laboratories. It also contains and preserves comprehensive zoological collections both from India and from other countries in Asia and issues two series of publications, viz., "Records of the Indian Museum" and "Memoirs of the Indian Museum" in which is embodied the zoological work already accomplished. It also provides facilities for students of superior scientific status to work at advanced zoology.

(b) The scheme regarding the Zoological Survey entails the breaking up of the organisation now known as the Zoological and Anthropological Section of the Indian Museum into two parts, one of which will become a Government department under the title of the Zoological Survey of India and will be primarily concerned with zoological investigation and exercise such advisory functions as may be assigned to it by Government, while the other part will remain as the office of the Trustees of the Indian Museum and will be organised for the present on the lines laid down in the existing bye-laws of the Museum. One effect of the proposals will be that the Zoological and Anthropological Section will be brought into line with the Geological, Archaeological and Industrial Sections which are in the charge of the Director of the Geological Survey of India, the Director General of Archaeology in India and the Director of the Botanical Survey of India respectively.

(c) The whole of the staff, office establishment and menials of the Zoological and Anthropological Section of the Museum with the exception of those employés of the Section who are engaged solely in connection with the maintenance of discipline, cleanliness, etc., in the Museum as a whole and the chaprasis employed by the Trustees, will be transferred to the Zoological Survey. The Superintendent of the present Zoological and Anthropological Section will become the Director of the Zoological Survey with his headquarters at the Indian Museum. He will however continue to be ex officio Secretary to the Trustees but the Government of India do not consider it desirable to lay down the condition that this combination of posts shall continue indefinitely, provided that if a separate Secretary is at any time appointed no increased cost to Government is thereby involved. He will also continue for the present to perform the duties of Superintendent of the Indian Museum. The Director of the Zoological Survey will be regarded for the purposes of the Indian Museum Act as Superintendent of the Zoological and Anthropological Section of the Museum.

The superior staff of the Zoological Survey will be as follows:—

1 Director, Zoological Survey of India. The first Director will be Dr. Annandale, B.A., D.Sc., C.M.Z.S., F.L.S., F.A.S.B., the present Superintendent of the Zoological and Anthropological Section.

1 Superintendent, Zoological Survey of India.

2 Assistant Superintendents, Zoological Survey of India

Besides the above, the Surgeon Naturalist to the Indian Marine Survey will be considered an officer of the Zoological Survey and be styled ex-officio Assistant Superintendent of the Survey. He will carry out his work in direct connection with the Zoological Survey, but he will be liable to military duty in case of emergency and will be subject to naval discipline while on board the "Investigator".

(d) The Zoological Survey will be a scientific department of the Government of India under the direct control of the Department of Education just as the Botanical Survey is under that of the Department of Revenue and Agriculture.

The relations between the new Survey and the Trustees will be regulated by clause 7 (a) of the Indian Museum Act (X of 1910) and will be identical with those that at present exist between the Archaeological Survey and the Trustees except that the Director of the Zoological Survey, as stated in paragraph 3 (c) above, will be ex-officio Secretary to the Trust. The Trustees will lend to the Director of the Zoological Survey their zoological collections, retaining visiting powers in the Zoological Section as in the others in which a similar loan has been effected. They will, however, retain full control of their Secretary's office.

(e) It will be the duty of the Zoological Survey to act as guardians of the standard zoological collection of the Indian Empire and as such to give every assistance in their power both to officials and to others, in the identification of zoological specimens submitted to them, arranging, if requested to do so, to send collections to specialists abroad for identification in cases in which no specialist is available in India. The Survey will also obtain the fullest possible information about the systematic and geographical zoology of the Indian Empire and will place this information at the disposal of inquirers. It will not, however, interfere in any way with private enterprise in zoological matters or with the scientific work of other Imperial or Provincial Government departments.

The Forest and Agricultural Departments subordinate to the Government of India have agreed to collaborate in the Zoological Survey on the same condition of co-operation as exists between the Botanical Survey and other Government departments, i.e., collaboration without subordination. Local Governments and Administrations will, it is hoped, similarly allow their officers to co-operate with the Zoological Survey without being in any way subordinate to its Director. Their co-operation will be most welcome and valuable.

(f) The Director of the Zoological Survey will act as Zoological Adviser to the Government of India in the same way as the Director of the Botanical Survey acts as Botanical and the Director General of Archaeology as Archaeological Adviser. He will be treated as a head of a department and will be empowered, subject to the usual conditions, to re-appropriate funds within his budget grants from one head to another and to create temporary appointments up to Rs. 50 a month.

Just as the Director General of Archaeology is in charge of the archaeological collection of the Indian Museum, so the Director of the Zoological Survey will be in charge of the zoological and anthropological collections.

(g) The zoological publications of the Indian Museum will be continued in their present form and under their present titles but will be edited by the Director of the Zoological Survey instead of by the Superintendent of the Indian Museum. The great bibliographical inconvenience involved in any change of name will thus be avoided and any break of continuity rendered

(h) The personal allowance of Rs. 200 a month at present given to the Senior Assistant Superintendent, who will be styled Superintendent, Zoological Survey of India, shall be made a regular part of the pay of his post. The effect of this change is as shown below :—

Present.	Future.
1 Superintendent, Zoological and Anthropological Section, Indian Museum, Rs. 1,000—80—1,100 with free quarters.	1 Director Zoological Survey of India Rs. 1,000—80—1,400 with free quarters.
1 Senior Assistant Superintendent, Rs. 500—40*—700 with free quarters. Personal allowance, Rs. 200.	1 Superintendent, Zoological Survey of India, Rs. 700—40*—900 with free quarters.
1 Assistant Superintendent,† Rs 500—40*—700.	1 Assistant Superintendent,† Zoological Survey of India, Rs. 500—40*—700.
1 Assistant Superintendent,† Rs. 500—40*—700.	1 Assistant Superintendent,†, Zoological Survey of India, Rs. 500—40*—700.
* (Biennially.)	* (Biennially.)

† Admitted to the benefits of the Calcutta house allowance scheme.

(i) The income of the Trustees of the Indian Museum from private sources, viz., gate money (average Rs. 1,300) and sale of publications (average Rs. 800), which are of a fluctuating nature, shall be credited to Government and in their place an annual fixed grant of Rs. 10,708 shall be given to them to meet their charges.

4. The financial effect of the scheme is as shown below :—

The details of the income, which at present ordinarily suffices to meet the normal annual expenditure of the Zoological and Anthropological Section, were in 1913-14 as follows :—

	Rs.
(1) Grants from Government on account of (a) non-gazetted establishment including the special entomological assistant whose pay (Rs 100—15—250) is met from the special educational grant, (b) maintenance, and (c) acquisition of specimens	61,970
(2) Receipts from gate money (average Rs. 1,300), sale of publications (average Rs. 800) and savings on non-gazetted establishment and on gazetted staff (average Rs 1,200)	3,300
(3) Average cost of superior staff (i.e., 1 Superintendent and 3 Assistant Superintendents) paid by Government	41,090
Total	1,06,360

The funds of the Section will be distributed as follows :—

Museum.
(1) Grant to the Trustees of the Museum for general museum work, viz. (1) Rs. 8,708 on account of establishment as now revised, and (2) Rs. 2,000 on account of petty expenditure	10,708
Zoological Survey.
(1) Gazetted staff...	41,090
(2) Non-gazetted establishment	22,132
(3) Grant for contingencies and travelling allowances of gazetted and non-gazetted establishment ..	34,000
(4) Ethnological gallery	829
(5) Special entomological assistant	2,130
Total ...	1,10,889
Deduct Rs. 1,200 on account of probable savings on non-gazetted and gazetted establishment	1,200
	1,09,689

It will be observed that taking the expenditure as a whole the scheme involves at present an extra cost of about Rs. 3,300 a year. Financially the main effect of this scheme is that Government will in future make a grant of Rs. 10,708 only to the Museum instead of its present grants, but will accept responsibility for the whole of the expenditure of the Zoological Survey.

5. In conclusion, the Governor General in Council trusts that the co-ordination and systematisation of zoological work throughout India, which will be a necessary consequence of the establishment of a zoological survey, in such a manner as will avoid overlapping and assist in the filling up of gaps will be of considerable value to this country.

AN

TO

Prohibit or control trading by hostile foreigners and hostile firms and for other purposes.

WHEREAS an emergency has arisen which makes it necessary to take powers further to prohibit or control trading by hostile foreigners and hostile firms and for other purposes;

Now, therefore, in exercise of the power conferred by section 72 of the Government of India Act, 1915, the Governor General is pleased to make and promulgate the following Ordinance:—

5 & 6 Geo., V, Ch. 61.

ORDINANCE NO. V OF 1916.

Short title.

1. This Ordinance may be called the Enemy Trading Ordinance, 1916.

Definitions.

2. In this Ordinance—

"Company" means any company, firm or association, or body of individuals whether incorporated or not;

"Hostile foreigner" means a subject of a State for the time being at war with His Majesty, and includes any company constituted according to the laws of such State, and the ruler or government of any such State; and

"Hostile firm" means any of the following, namely:—

(a) any hostile foreigner who has, or at any date subsequent to the 3rd day of August, 1914 had, an office, agency or place of business in British India;

(b) any company of which any member or officer is a hostile foreigner, or of which a hostile foreigner was a member or officer on the 3rd day of August, 1914, and which has or has had since that date an office, agency or place of business in British India;

(c) any person, or company who or which has, at any time since the 3rd day of August, 1914, carried on business in British India, and whose business is, or was, in the opinion of the Governor General in Council, either by reason of its nature or of the persons who carry or carried it on, or for any other cause whatsoever, carried on either under the control whether direct or indirect of any hostile foreigner, or carried on wholly or mainly for the benefit of hostile foreigners generally, or any class of hostile foreigners or any individual hostile foreigner.

3. (1) The Governor General in Council may, by general or special order, appoint Inspectors for the purpose of determining whether any business is or was carried on by a hostile firm within the meaning of this Ordinance.

Power to appoint Inspectors.

(2) The Inspector may summon before him any person whom he believes to be capable of giving information concerning the trade, dealings, affairs or property of such business, and of the antecedents and nationality of those by whom it is or was carried on or controlled.

(3) The Inspector may examine such person on oath concerning the same and may reduce his answers to writing, and require him to sign them.

(4) The Inspector may require such person to produce any documents in his custody or power in any way relating to such business or to the persons by whom it is or was carried on or controlled.

(5) If any person so summoned refuses to come before the Inspector at the time appointed, the Inspector may cause him to be apprehended and brought before him for examination.

(6) If any person refuses to answer any question or to produce any document, which under this section the Inspector is empowered to ask or require production of, such person shall be punishable with imprisonment which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

4. (1) The Governor General in Council may make an order either—

Power to prohibit or restrict, or wind up hostile firms.

(a) prohibiting any hostile firm from carrying on business except for the purposes and subject to the conditions, if any, specified in the order ; or

(b) requiring the business of such firm to be wound up; and may in any case, where he has made an order prohibiting or limiting the carrying on of the business, at any time, if he thinks it expedient, substitute for that order an order requiring the business to be wound up.

(2) Every order made under sub-section (1) shall be published by notification in the Gazette of India.

(3) If any person contravenes the provisions of any order made under this section, he shall be punishable with imprisonment which may extend to one year, and shall also be liable to fine.

(4) An order made under this section shall continue in force, notwithstanding the termination of the present war, until determined by order of the Governor General in Council.

5. (1) Where the Governor General in Council makes an order under this Ordinance requiring a business to be wound up, the order shall, on notification in the Gazette of India, have effect as if it were a winding up order made by a Court under the Indian Companies Act, 1913, and the provisions of that Act relating to winding up by the Court and the rules made thereunder subject to such exceptions, restrictions, extensions, modifications and adaptations as the Governor General in Council may, by general or special order, prescribe, or such other rules as may be prescribed by him, shall apply to the winding up of the business :

Winding up order.

Provided that, for the purposes of any winding up order under this Ordinance, all powers exercisable by the Court under the said Act shall be exercisable by the Governor General in Council or by such other authority as he may appoint either generally or specially in that behalf :

Provided also that the assets of the business and any money resulting from the realization of any part thereof shall be dealt with in accordance with such rules as the Governor General in Council may make in that behalf.

(2) Where an order has been made under this Ordinance directing the winding up of the business of a hostile firm, the hostile firm shall not, nor shall any other person, commence or initiate, whilst that order remains in force, any other proceedings of a like nature or calculated in any way to interfere with the carrying out of such order.

6. Where it appears to the Governor General in Council that a contract entered into before or during the war, or a transfer of property, moveable or immoveable, made during the war, with or by a hostile foreigner or a hostile firm is injurious to the public interest, or was made with the object of evading any provision of the law, the Governor General in Council may by order cancel or determine such contract, either unconditionally or upon such conditions as he thinks fit, or declare such transfer to be void either in whole or in part, or may impose such conditions on the transferee as he thinks fit.

Contracts or transfers against the public interest.

7. (1) The Governor General in Council in any case where it appears to him to be expedient to do so may by order vest in any Custodian appointed under the Enemy Trading Act, 1915, any property, moveable or immoveable, belonging to or managed or held whether in trust or otherwise, for, or on behalf of, a hostile foreigner, a hostile firm, or any person or company residing in, or carrying on business in the dominions of, a State at war with His Majesty, or the right to transfer that property, and may by any such order or any subsequent order confer on the Custodian such powers of selling, managing and otherwise dealing with the property as to the Governor General in Council may seem proper.

Power of the Governor General in Council to vest property in Custodian under the Enemy Trading Act, 1915.

(2) A vesting order under this section shall, notwithstanding the provisions of any other law to the contrary, be sufficient to vest in the Custodian any property or the right to transfer any property as provided by the order without the necessity of any further document.

(3) Where, in the exercise of the powers conferred on him by the Governor General in Council, the Custodian proposes to sell any shares or stock forming part of the capital of any company or any securities issued by the company in respect of which a vesting order under this Ordinance has been made, the company may, with the consent of the Governor General in Council, purchase the shares, stock or securities, notwithstanding anything to the contrary in any law or in any regulation of the company, and any shares, stock or securities so purchased may, from time to time, be re-issued by the company.

(4) The transfer by the Custodian of any property shall be conclusive evidence in favour of the transferee and of the Custodian that the requirements of this section have been complied with.

(5) All property vested in the Custodian under this section and the proceeds of the sale of, or money arising from, any such property, shall be dealt with by him in accordance with such directions as he may receive from the Governor General in Council; and no such property or money shall be liable to be attached or otherwise taken in execution.

Validity of vesting orders.

8. Where a vesting order has been made under this Ordinance as respects any property belonging to, or held or managed for, or on behalf of, a person who appeared to the Governor General in Council to be a person to whom the provisions of section 7 were applicable, the order shall not, nor shall any proceedings thereunder or in consequence thereof, be invalidated or affected by reason only of such person having, prior to the date of the order, died or ceased to be a person to whom the said provisions were applicable, or subsequently dying or ceasing to be such a person or by reason of its being subsequently ascertained that he was not such a person, as the case may be.

Registration of transfer without production of certificates, etc.

9. Where the Custodian executes a transfer of any shares, stock or securities which he is empowered to transfer by a vesting order made under this Ordinance, the company in whose books the shares, stock or securities are registered shall, upon the receipt of the transfer so executed by the Custodian, and upon being required by him so to do, register the shares, stock or securities in the name of the Custodian or other transferee, notwithstanding any regulation or stipulation of the company, and notwithstanding that the Custodian is not in possession of the certificate, scrip or other document of title relating to the shares, stock or securities transferred; but such registration shall be without prejudice to any lien or charge in favour of the company or to any other lien or charge of which the Custodian has express notice.

Power to make rules.

10. (1) The Governor General in Council may make rules for all or any of the following purposes, namely:—

(a) providing for the distribution or disposal of any assets, or any money resulting from the realization of any part thereof, of any business in respect of which a winding up order has been made under this Ordinance;

(b) prescribing that hostile foreigners and hostile firms or any class of hostile foreigners or hostile firms shall, when required by the Custodian, furnish to him such particulars as he may require of all or any moveable or immoveable property in their possession, or under their control whether direct or indirect;

(c) requiring persons in British India to furnish to the Custodian such particulars as he may require of all or any class of debts or other property due by them to any person to whom the provisions of section 7 are or may be applicable;

(d) prescribing the remuneration payable to the Custodian in respect of his duties under this Ordinance, the fund from which it shall be paid, and the method of collecting the same; and

(e) generally for carrying out the purposes of this Ordinance.

(2) In making any rule under this section, the Governor General in Council may direct that a breach of it shall be punishable with imprisonment which may extend to a term not exceeding six months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

Certain licenses under the Hostile Foreigners (Trading) Order to be deemed to be orders issued under section 4 (1) (a)

11 Every license for the time being in force granted under the Hostile Foreigners (Trading) Order permitting the licensee to trade or carry on business subject to conditions or restrictions shall be deemed to be an order made under section 4 (1) (a) of this Ordinance, and this Ordinance shall have effect accordingly.

Power to deal with non-trading companies.

12. (1) The Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, declare that the powers conferred by section 7 in regard to the property, moveable or immoveable, of the persons referred to therein shall extend to the property, moveable or immoveable, in British India, of any company specified in such notification of which any member is a hostile foreigner or of which a hostile foreigner was a member or officer on the 3rd day of August, 1914, notwithstanding that such company is not a company trading in British India.

(2) On the publication of a notification under sub-section (1), the company shall be deemed to be a person referred to in section 7 of this Ordinance, and this Ordinance shall have effect accordingly.

Validation of past action.

13. Any act done after the 3rd day of August, 1914 by, or under the orders of, any officer of Government in respect of the property, moveable or immoveable, of any hostile foreigner or hostile firm which, if this Ordinance had been in force, could have been validly done in the exercise of the powers conferred thereby, or which could have been conferred thereunder, is hereby validated.

AN

TO

Prohibit or control trading by hostile foreigners and hostile firms and for other purposes.

WHEREAS an emergency has arisen which makes it necessary to take powers further to prohibit or control trading by hostile foreigners and hostile firms and for other purposes;

Now, therefore, in exercise of the power conferred by section 72 of the Government of India Act, 1915, the Governor General is pleased to make and promulgate the following Ordinance:—

ORDINANCE NO. V OF 1916.

Short title.

1. This Ordinance may be called the Enemy Trading Ordinance, 1916.

Definitions

2. In this Ordinance—

"Company" means any company, firm or association, or body of individuals, whether incorporated or not;

"Hostile foreigner" means a subject of a State for the time being at war with His Majesty, and includes any company constituted according to the laws of such State, and the ruler or Government of any such State; and

"Hostile firm" means any of the following, namely:—

(a) any hostile foreigner who has, or at any date subsequent to the 3rd day of August, 1914, had, an office, agency or place of business in British India;

(b) any company of which any member or officer is a hostile foreigner, or of which a hostile foreigner was a member or officer on the 3rd day of August, 1914, and which has or has had since that date an office, agency or place of business in British India;

(c) any person or company who or which has, at any time since the 3rd day of August, 1914, carried on business in British India, and whose business is, or was, in the opinion of the Governor General in Council, either by reason of its nature or of the persons who carry or carried it on, or for any other cause whatsoever, carried on either under the control whether direct or indirect of any hostile foreigner, or carried on wholly or mainly for the benefit of hostile foreigners generally, or any class of hostile foreigners or any individual hostile foreigner.

Power to appoint Inspectors.

3. (1) The Governor General in Council may, by general or special order, appoint Inspectors for the purpose of determining whether any business is or was carried on by a hostile firm within the meaning of this Ordinance.

(2) The Inspector may summon before him any person whom he believes to be capable of giving information concerning the trade, dealings, affairs or property of such business, and of the antecedents and nationality of those by whom it is or was carried on or controlled.

(3) The Inspector may examine such person on oath concerning the same, and may reduce his answers to writing, and require him to sign them.

(4) The Inspector may require such person to produce any documents in his custody or power in any way relating to such business or to the persons by whom it is or was carried on or controlled.

(5) If any person so summoned refuses to come before the Inspector at the time appointed, the Inspector may cause him to be apprehended and brought before him for examination.

(6) If any person refuses to answer any question or to produce any document, which under this section the Inspector is empowered to ask or require production of, such person shall be punishable with imprisonment which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

Power to prohibit or restrict or wind up hostile firms.

4. (1) The Governor General in Council may make an order either—

(a) prohibiting any hostile firm from carrying on business except for the purposes and subject to the conditions, if any, specified in the order; or

(b) requiring the business of such firm to be wound up; and may in any case, where he has made an order prohibiting or limiting the carrying on of the business, at any time, if he thinks it expedient, substitute for that order an order requiring the business to be wound up.

(2) Every order made under subsection (1) shall be published by notification in the Gazette of India.

(3) If any person contravenes the provisions of any order made under this section, he shall be punishable with imprisonment which may extend to one year, and shall also be liable to fine.

(4) An order made under this section shall continue in force, notwithstanding the termination of the present war, until determined by order of the Governor General in Council.

Winding up order.

5. (1) Where the Governor General in Council makes an order under this Ordinance requiring a business to be wound up, the order shall, on notification in the Gazette of India, have effect as if it were a winding up order made by a Court under the Indian Companies Act, 1913, and the provisions of that Act relating to winding up by the Court and the rules made thereunder subject to such exceptions, restrictions, extensions, modifications and adaptations as the Governor General in Council may, by general or special order, prescribe, or such other rules as may be prescribed by him, shall apply to the winding up of the business:

Provided that, for the purposes of any winding up order under this Ordinance, all powers exerciseable by the Court under the said Act shall be exerciseable by the Governor General in Council or by such other authority as he may appoint either generally or specially in that behalf:

Provided also that the assets of the business and any money resulting from the realization of any part thereof shall be dealt with in accordance with such rules as the Governor General in Council may make in that behalf.

(2) Where an order has been made under this Ordinance directing the winding up of the business of a hostile firm, the hostile firm shall not, nor shall any other person, commence or initiate, whilst that order remains in force, any other proceedings of a like nature or calculated in any way to interfere with the carrying out of such order.

Contracts or transfers against the public interest.

6. Where it appears to the Governor General in Council that a contract entered into before or during the war, or a transfer of property, moveable or immoveable, made during the war, with or by a hostile foreigner or a hostile firm is injurious to the public interest, or was made with the object of evading any provision of the law, the Governor General in Council may by order cancel or determine such contract, either unconditionally or upon such conditions as he thinks fit, or declare such transfer to be void either in whole or in part, or may impose such conditions on the transferee as he thinks fit.

Power of the Governor General in Council to vest property in Custodian under the Enemy Trading Act, 1916.

7. (1) The Governor General in Council in any case where it appears to him to be expedient to do so may by order vested in any Custodian appointed under the Enemy Trading Act, 1915, any property, moveble or immoveable, belonging to or managed or held whether in trust or otherwise, for, or on behalf of, a hostile foreigner, a hostile firm, or any person or company residing in, or carrying on business in the dominions of, a State at war with His Majesty, or the right to transfer that property, and may by any such order or any subsequent order confer on the Custodian such powers of selling, managing and otherwise dealing with the property as to the Governor General in Council may seem proper.

(2) A vesting order under this section shall, notwithstanding the provisions of any other law to the contrary, be sufficient to vest in the Custodian any property or the right to transfer any property as provided by the order without the necessity of any further document.

(3) Where, in the exercise of the powers conferred on him by the Governor General in Council, the Custodian proposes to sell any shares or stock forming part of the capital of any company or any securities issued by the company in respect of which a vesting order under this Ordinance has been made, the company may, with the consent of the Governor General in Council, purchase the shares, stock or securities, notwithstanding anything to the contrary in any law or in any regulation of the company, and any shares, stock or securities so purchased may, from time to time, be re-issued by the company.

(4) The transfer by the Custodian of any property shall be conclusive evidence in favour of the transferee and of the Custodian that the requirements of this section have been complied with.

(5 All property vested in the Custodian under this section and the proceeds of the sale of, or money arising from, any such property, shall be dealt with by him in accordance with such directions as he may receive from the Governor General in Council; and no such property or money shall be liable to be attached or otherwise taken in execution.

Validity of vesting order.

8. Where a vesting order has been made under this Ordinance as respects any property belonging to, or held or managed for, or on behalf of, a person who appeared to the Governor General in Council to be a person to whom the provisions of section 7 were applicable, the order shall not, nor shall any proceedings thereunder or in consequence thereof, be invalidated or affected by reason only of such person having, prior to the date of the order, died or ceased to be a person to whom the said provisions were applicable, or subsequently dying or ceasing to be such a person or by reason of its being subsequently ascertained that he was not such a person, as the case may be.

Registration of transfer without production of certificates, etc.

9. Where the Custodian executes a transfer of any shares, stock or securities which he is empowered to transfer by a vesting order made under this Ordinance, the company in whose books the shares, stock or securities are registered shall, upon the receipt of the transfer so executed by the Custodian, and upon being required by him so to do, register the shares, stock or securities in the name of the Custodian or other transferee, notwithstanding any regulation or stipulation of the company, and notwithstanding that the Custodian is not in possession of the certificate, scrip or other document of title relating to the shares, stock or securities transferred; but such registration shall be without prejudice to any lien or charge in favour of the company or to any other lien or charge of which the Custodian has express notice.

Power to make rules.

10. (1) The Governor General in Council may make rules for all or any of the following purposes, namely:—

(a) providing for the distribution or disposal of any assets, or any money resulting from the realization of any part thereof, of any business in respect of which a winding up order has been made under this Ordinance;

(b) prescribing that hostile foreigners and hostile firms or any class of hostile foreigners or hostile firms shall, when required by the Custodian, furnish to him such particulars as he may require of all or any moveable or immoveable property in their possession, or under their control whether direct or indirect;

(c) requiring persons in British India to furnish to the Custodian such particulars as he may require of all or any class of debts or other property due by them to any person to whom the provisions of section 7 are or may be applicable;

(d) prescribing the remuneration payable to the Custodian in respect of his duties under this Ordinance, the fund from which it shall be paid, and the method of collecting the same; and

(e) generally for carrying out the purposes of this Ordinance.

(2) In making any rule under this section, the Governor General in Council may direct that a breach of it shall be punishable with imprisonment which may extend to a term not exceeding six months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

Certain licenses under the Hostile Foreigners (Trading) Order to be deemed to be orders issued under section 4(1)(a).

11. Every license for the time being in force granted under the Hostile Foreigners (Trading) Order permitting the licensee to trade or carry on business subject to conditions or restrictions shall be deemed to be an order made under section 4 (1) (a) of this Ordinance, and this Ordinance shall have effect accordingly.

Power to deal with non-trading companies.

12. (1) The Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, declare that the powers conferred by section 7 in regard to the property, moveable or immovable, of the persons referred to therein shall extend to the property, moveable or immoveable, in British India, of any company specified in such notification of which any member is a hostile foreigner or of which a hostile foreigner was a member or officer on the 3rd day of August, 1914, notwithstanding that such company is not a company trading in British India.

(2) On the publication of a notification under sub-section (1), the company shall be deemed to be a person referred to in section 7 of this Ordinance, and this Ordinance shall have effect accordingly.

Validation of past action.

13. Any act done after the 3rd day of August, 1914 by, or under the orders of, any officer of Government in respect of the property, moveable or immoveable, of any hostile foreigner or hostile firm which, if this Ordinance had been in force, could have been validly done in the exercise of the powers conferred thereby, or which could have been conferred thereunder, is hereby validated.

When such by-laws or modifications thereof have received the approval of the society they shall be forwarded to the Registrar. 8. (ii) The Registrar on receiving notice of any such dispute shall either decide to dispute himself or refer it for decision to three arbitrators, of whom one shall be nominated by each of the parties to the dispute and the third by the Registrar.

(iii) Where any party to the dispute fails to nominate an arbitrator within fifteen days after receipt of notice from the Registrar, the Registrar shall report the matter to the Commissioner who, if he thinks it desirable, shall himself make the nomination.

Rainfall summary for the seven days ending at 8 hrs. on Thursday, the 8th June 1916, based on the Indian Daily Weather Reports of the period.

1. A temporary advance of the monsoon in the Arabian Sea gave general and moderately heavy rain throughout the week on the west coast of the Peninsula, with occasional extensions into Gujarat, Rajputana, the central parts of the country and the interior of the Peninsula. DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 3rd June 1916.

Burma.—Moderate to heavy rain was general throughout the Province, the principal falls being Tavoy 16·05, Amherst 10·66, Thaton 9·89 and Akyab 8·21 inches. Agricultural operations for the main rice crop in Lower Burma and for the upland crops in Upper Burma are becoming general. Cattle are generally healthy. The price of unhusked rice at Rangoon has fallen further to rupees 110 per hundred baskets and is below normal. The market for white rice is steady.

Assam.—The weather was generally hot. The rainfall has been general but more rain is still wanted in places. Flood has caused some damage to autumn rice in Kamrup. Sowing of autumn and winter rice and jute, plucking of tea and planting of sugarcane are in progress. Sowing of cotton and harvesting of potatoes in the Khasi and Jaintia Hills districts and harvesting of early autumn rice in the Goalpara district have commenced. Prospects of tea are moderate. The price of common rice is almost stationary. Cattle disease is reported from five districts.

Bengal.—During the end of the week light to moderate rain fell generally throughout the Province. The recent rainfall has facilitated further sowings of jute and autumn paddy, especially in the western districts. More rain is needed for the ploughing of fields and for the growth of the standing crops. Weeding of jute fields continues. Prospects of standing crops have been somewhat improved by the recent showers. Cattle disease is reported from four districts Scarcity of water continues to be felt in parts of Burdwan and Birbhum The average price of common rice for the Province has remained almost stationary as compared with that of the previous week.

The weekly report on famine and scarcity is as follows:—In the Bankura district the state of affairs in affected areas is generally unchanged. The rainfall during the week was fair throughout the district. Agricultural operations have commenced. The condition of the people on works is generally good Relief measures are adequate. People are freely resorting to works. Loans are being freely advanced. Scarcity of fodder continues. Private charitable funds are giving relief District charitable relief fund distributed cloth. Prices are stationary. The price of rice is 8 seers per rupee. The number of persons on relief works was 22,558 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 25,204, total 47,762. The number of persons relieved on private works was 7,713. In the Tippera district the rainfall during the week has improved prospects of the standing crops but more rain is wanted. The public health is good. Relief measures are adequate. No emaciation is noticeable. The price of rice is 7 seers per rupee. The number of person on relief works was 3,898 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 4,732, total 8,630.

Bihar and Orissa.—During the week light to moderate rain was fairly general over the Province. Preparation of lands and sowings of paddy, jute and other autumn crops are going on. Standing crops are doing well. The average price of common rice has remained almost stationary as compared with that of the preceding week. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient except in parts of Hazaribagh. Cattle disease is reported from several districts. The attendance of persons on test works in Manbhum was 3,507 and in Singhbhum 12,552. Gratuitous relief was given to 1,422 persons in Manbhum. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa is good.

United Provinces.—Useful rain fell throughout the Provinces to the benefit of agricultural operations in general. Preparation of fields for autumn crops and irrigation and hoeing of sugarcane are in progress. Standing crops are doing well and their prospects are good. Shortage of canal water and pasture is still reported from Muttra. Very little cattle disease is reported and the condition of agricultural stock is good. Prices show a slight tendency to rise.

Punjab.—Light or moderate rain has fallen in parts of all the reporting districts and has been useful for the standing extra spring crops and for cotton and sugarcane as also for the sowing and ploughing of other autumn crops. Threshing of wheat has been completed with yield on irrigated areas below normal to normal and on unirrigated poor. Sowings of autumn crops continue and are restricted in parts of the south-east and west and normal elsewhere. The condition of the standing extra spring and autumn crops is generally fair on irrigated and below average on unirrigated areas. Cattle are generally healthy but are weak in some districts owing to scarcity of fodder. Water for drinking and irrigation is generally sufficient but shortage of canal water is reported from parts of the south-east. Prices are generally stationary and in the case of wheat they range generally between normal and warning rates and in other cases between warning and scarcity rates. Price of wheat :—Rawalpindi 10¼, Lahore 11, Ambala 12 and Ferozepore and Lyallpur 12½ seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—During the week slight rain fell throughout the Province except in Dera Ismail Khan. The weather is hot. The conditions of standing crops both on irrigated and unirrigated areas are average everywhere but in Dera Ismail Khan where unirrigated crops are reported to be poor. Harvesting of spring crops is proceeding with outturn normal. Sowings of autumn crops continue. The condition of cattle is generally good except in unirrigated tracts of the Lakki tahsil of the Bannu district. Fodder and water are sufficient throughout the Province but they are scanty in the irrigated tracts of the Lakki tahsil and in some villages of the Dera Ismail Khan district. The public health is good. Prices are high and stationary. The prices of wheat and barley in Peshawar and those of wheat and gram in Dera Ismail Khan are rising slightly.

Jammu.—Slight rain fell in some parts. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 8 to 12 and maize from 10 to 18 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is average on the whole. There is no cattle disease. Fodder is insufficient.

Kashmir.—The rainfall during the week was insignificant. Standing crops are in fair condition. Spring crops have been almost gathered and agricultural operations for autumn crops are in progress in Mozaffarabad. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are sufficient. Prices are normal.

Rajputana.—The weather is hot and clear with occasional clouds. The rainfall during the week was general in Rajputana and Ajmer. The maximum falls in cents were :—Kotah 221, Karauli 171, Kishengarh 130, Banswara 110, Ajmer 104, Jaisalmer 100, Bundi 54 and Bharatpur 65. Land is being prepared for autumn sowings. Fodder scarcity is reported in almost all the States of Rajputana and in Ajmer-Merwara. Cattle are in very poor condition and cattle disease is reported from Dungarpur, Banswara and Kotah. Water is generally sufficient except in Marwar, Kotah, Jhalawar and Tonk. Prices are generally high and stationary. The number of persons on test works in Kishengarh was 5,476 and in Karauli 1,091.

The weekly report on scarcity in Merwara is as follows :—Harvesting is being completed. Distress is slightly increasing among agriculturists and labourers who are getting to the end of their resources and coming on relief. There is no wandering. Marwar emigrants with their cattle are returning viâ Merwara. People on relief are generally in good condition but some emaciation is perceptible among children. Relief measures are adequate Cash and grass advances are being distributed. The fodder supply is sufficient at present The public health continues to be good but a few cases of cholera are reported from Beawar. Prices are 10½ seers per rupee. The number of persons on test works was 5,000 and in receipt of gratuitous relief 2300, total 7300

Central India.—The weather is unusually hot. The rainfall during the week was general in Bhopal, nil in Gwalior and partial elsewhere, the principal falls being over 1 inch in the Kannod pargana of the Indore State, over 3 inches in Jhabua and Manpur, over 2 inches in Barwani and over 1 inch in Dhar and Alirajpur. Winnowing of spring crops is in progress in Bhopal. Land is being prepared for autumn crops everywhere and sowing has commenced in Manpur of Southern States. The standing crops are in good condition in Gwalior, Bhopal and the Southern States. The probable outturn is normal in Gwalior and the Southern States and good in Bhopal and Bundelkhand. Agricultural stock is generally in good condition. The fodder supply is insufficient in Jobat of the Southern States and sufficient elsewhere except in Gwalior where there is scarcity of fodder and water. Prices are normal in Baghelkhand, rising in Bhopal and steady elsewhere.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING THE PROBABLE AMOUNT OF MONSOON RAINFALL IN 1916.

Monsoon rainfall in India is affected by previous conditions over various parts of the earth. The recent data which appear to be of importance are :—

SOUTH AMERICA.

2. Argentine Republic.—Pressure was in defect by 0·6 mm. in April and by 0·05 mm. in May.

Chili.—Pressure at Santiago was in defect by 0·3 mm. in April and in excess by 1·0 mm. in May

THE INDIAN OCEAN.

3. (a Mauritius.—Pressure in May averaged 0·10″ below normal, but this result was largely due to the proximity of a cyclone, apart from which the deficiency would probably have been less than 0·05″.

(b) Zanzibar.—Winds in May were more westerly than usual, but of about normal strength. Rainfall was unprecedentedly heavy in April, being 34·35″ in amount, or 151 per cent above normal ; in May it was 4·69″, or 54 per cent in defect. The total for the two months was in excess by 15·27″.

(c) Seychelles.—Winds were exceedingly light and variable during nearly the whole of May, the total rainfall of this month measured 8·35″, or 38 per cent in excess

(d) Logs of vessels.—During May light irregular winds prevailed over the western half of the equatorial belt except in the neighbourhood of the African coast where the air movement was of about the usual character. The equatorial belt of calms thus occupied a position which is normal for the middle of April.

NORTH EAST AFRICA.

4. The rainfall of Abyssinia in April and May is brought by monsoon winds from the Indian Ocean, and can be estimated from the amount of water in the Blue Nile at Roseires. This was below normal in April, but began to rise on the 7th May and on the 16th was 19 cms. above normal : in the third week it was still above and in the fourth sank to normal again.

SNOWFALL.

5. (a) In the Persian area the winter began several weeks after the normal date and lasted longer than usual, more especially in the north.

(b) In Afghanistan as represented by Kabul the precipitation was lighter than usual from November to March and remarkably heavy in April. There are no data available regarding Kabul itself for May, but on the Paghman, Qila Qazi, Shakardara and Hindu Kush ranges snow lay 2 to 3 feet deep on the 24th May.

(c) The precipitation in Baluchistan was in excess in January, April and May, and in defect during the rest of the season

(d) In the mountain region of the North-West Frontier Province the snowfall was apparently light from November to January and also in March, unusually heavy in February, and about normal in April and May.

(e) The precipitation of the season was distinctly below normal in Kashmir, the defect occurring chiefly in January and March. There were a few falls of snow in May but they were confined to the higher ranges.

(f) In the Punjab Himalayas the snowfall was heavier than usual in February and deficient during the rest of the period from November to April. On the Dalhousie range snow is reported to have fallen as low as 2,300 feet on the 6th of February. In May snow fell near the middle of the second week in the Simla, Kulu and Chamba hills, the lowest descent being to 8,000 feet on the Bhandal range. On the ranges near Kilba the snowline had retreated to a level of about 13,000 feet by the beginning of June.

(g) In the Kumaon hills the snowfall was on the whole lighter than usual; the accumulations at the end of May were distinctly less than the average on the higher elevations and rather in excess on the middle ranges.

(h) In the Assam Himalayas the snowfall, although unevenly distributed, was on the whole about the average.

In general it appears that notwithstanding the marked prolongation of winter conditions there has been less than the average amount of snowfall, and it is almost certain that the accumulations existing at the present time are on the whole below the average depth except perhaps on the ranges around Kabul and in a few localities in the western Himalayas.

CEYLON.

6. The May rainfall in the southern portion of the island, as represented by the mean of Galle, Kalutara and Ratnapura, amounted to 32·2 inches, the normal amount being 14·7 inches.

INDIA.

7. During May pressure was only ·001″ in excess. It was, owing probably to local disturbances, about ·045″ in excess in the Punjab, where temperature was in defect by about 2½°.

The monsoon arrived on the west coast on the 31st May, which is about three days earlier than usual; it has not as yet established itself inland.

UPPER AIR.

8. Mr. Field has found that during the cooler half year in India the winds increase rapidly with height and frequently reach 100 miles an hour at a height of about 7 miles; in the hotter half year the increase is slight. Last year the rise in velocity above Agra occurred about six weeks later than usual, and was followed by a corresponding delay in the occurrence of the cold weather rains, with consequent failure in the early portion of the winter.

The diminution in velocity in the upper winds was nearly completed by the first half of May in 1914 and 1915, but this year the change had not taken place by the end of May. It seems natural therefore to infer delay in the thorough establishment of monsoon conditions in India.

METHOD OF HANDLING THE DATA.

9. The search by empirical methods for the causes of variations in our monsoon rainfall has been made in two stages. Attention was at first largely concentrated on the variations of the monsoon as a whole, and it was only three years ago that it became possible to examine systematically the numerous factors which might determine the geographical distribution in India. One result was that excessive rain in April and May at Zanzibar, close to the path of the winds travelling to western India, is prejudicial to the rains from the Arabian Sea monsoon; but, like snowfall in the northwest, it has no influence on Burma and northeast India, which get their rains from the Bay monsoon. Similarly excessive rain at Seychelles, in the path of winds for the Bay, is prejudicial to the rainfall brought by the Bay monsoon but has no influence on the rest of India. Also the variations in the rainfall of the extreme south appear to be definitely opposed to those of India as a whole, while those in Lower Burma are largely independent of it.

10. It seemed likely therefore that a better forecast could be made by considering Burma, northeast India (Assam, Bengal, Bihar and Chota Nagpur) and south Madras (south of latitude 16°) separately; the bulk of India is left* and is fairly homogeneous in its dependence on external factors. This has been called 'India, main' and calculation shows decidedly closer relationships with it than with the whole of India.

11. The fact that in the south of Ceylon May rainfall was extremely heavy in 1877 and 1899 has suggested that this occurrence might have a bad influence on our monsoon rainfall, and calculation shows that its influence is as great as that of snowfall. When this factor has been added to those previously considered it appears that ·7 of the variations of the monsoon in 'India, main' are controlled by factors available at the beginning of June instead of ·6 as was previously the case for the whole of India.

INFERENCES FROM THE DATA.

12. Of the conditions that exercise an influence on the monsoon the May pressure at Mauritius is almost independent of the rest and is this year distinctly favourable. The remaining factors are by no means independent and tend to be favourable together or unfavourable together. As regards snow, owing to the delay of about six weeks in the establishment of the winter rains, the amount lying at the beginning of March was materially less than the average. Since then conditions have been more disturbed than usual, and the result has been shown in an abnormally large number of dust and thunderstorms in northwest India with consequent low temperature; but the snowfall produced has not been in excess, and the present accumulations are distinctly less than the average.

With the lateness in the occurrence of disturbances in northwest India and their consequently excessive numbers in April and May has been associated, as usual, delay in the establishment of the monsoon winds in the equatorial region of the Indian Ocean and heavy rainfall at Zanzibar and in Ceylon; and this rainfall has in fact been about as unfavourable as in any year on record. In the same way South American pressure for April was distinctly low and unfavourable; but it has since risen materially, so that its net result is negligible.

The conclusion regarding 'India, main' is on the whole that its rainfall is likely to be in slight or moderate defect, the delay in the setting in of seasonal changes showing itself in unsteadiness especially during the early part of the season. The northwest of India is more sensitive to prejudicial influences than the remainder of the country, and will probably be more affected this year.

13. As regards Upper Burma, Bengal, Bihar, and Chota Nagpur, the conditions are rather adverse, owing to the excess of rain and variable winds at Seychelles. But in south Madras, which is mainly affected by May pressure in India and at Mauritius, the outlook is on the favourable side.

SUMMARY.

(a) The outlook for the general monsoon rainfall of India is on the whole somewhat unfavourable, and the rainfall is likely to be in slight or moderate defect at any rate in the earlier part of the season.

(b) As regards geographical distribution, apart from Lower Burma, Assam and Malabar, the only region where conditions appear favourable is southeast Madras. The deficiency which is anticipated in general elsewhere is likely to be most marked in northwest India.

* It includes the United Provinces, the Punjab, the North-West Frontier Province, Sind, Rajputana, Bombay Central India, the Central Provinces, Hyderabad, Mysore, the north Madras coast and Orissa.

FOREIGN COMMERCE.

FOREIGN SEA-BORNE TRADE DURING MAY 1916.

The outstanding feature of the trade returns of British India for May 1916, as compared with those of its immediate predecessor, is that there was an increase in total imports, exports, and re-exports. The total imports of merchandise were valued at R12½ crores, the exports at nearly R19 crores, and the re-exports at R55 lakhs. As compared with the preceding month (April 1916), the imports increased by 14 per cent, the exports by 13 per cent, and the re-exports by 82 per cent. As compared with May 1915, the imports showed an increase of 33 per cent, the exports of 22 per cent, and the re-exports of 74 per cent.

In the month of May 1916, there were 234 arrivals * and 362 sailings † in and from India. As regards tonnage, if a comparison be made with the corresponding month of 1914, before the war broke out, it will be seen that there is a decrease in the tonnage of vessels cleared of 193,362 tons or 29 per cent. The clearances from Bengal in May 1916 showed an increase of 33 per cent as compared with May 1914; while those from Bombay recorded a decrease of 37 per cent; Sind of 62 per cent; Madras of 49 per cent; and Burma of 28 per cent. The decrease in entries amounted to 214,086 tons or 38 per cent.

The shipping clearances with cargoes in foreign trade from the ports of British India in the two months, April and May 1916, as compared with the corresponding period of 1914, i.e., before the war broke out, show the present position of the freight market as follows:—

	TONNAGE CLEARANCES IN THE TWO MONTHS, APRIL AND MAY.
	1914 Peace conditions.	1916 War conditions.
British ships	645,251	632,842
Foreign ships	648,826	358,249
TOTAL	1,294,077	991,091

Under war conditions, the total tonnage clearances have declined 23 per cent. Under peace conditions, the British and foreign tonnage was equally divided, i.e., 50 per cent each of the total, while under war conditions, the British tonnage is 64 per cent and foreign tonnage 36 per cent.

RAILWAY STATISTICS.

* The details were as follows:—Bengal 27, Bombay 61, Sind 25, Madras 99, and Burma 22.

Published by order of the Governor-General in Council

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN SELECTED ARTICLES IN APRIL 1916.

The object of the tables below is to show the quantities of the principal staples of agricultural produce imported from the various provinces, etc., and from foreign countries into the ports of Calcutta, Bombay, Karachi, and the Madras ports during the month of April 1916, as compared with the corresponding month of 1915. The statistics include foreign sea-borne and coasting trade as well as inland (rail and river-borne) trade. They have been furnished by Collectors of Customs, Steamer Companies, Railway Audit Officers, the Commissioners for the Port of Calcutta, etc.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN APRIL 1915 AND 1916.

It will be seen from Table I, that the imports by rail, river and sea in April 1916, as against the corresponding month of 1915 show (in round numbers) an increase of—

75 per cent in linseed.
([illegible] tons as against [illegible] tons last year.)

55 per cent in rape and mustard seed.
(39,800 tons as against 25,600 tons last year.)

14 per cent in tea.
(2,406,200 lbs. as against 2,107,100 lbs. last year.)

11 per cent in gram and pulse.
(52,000 tons as against 46,800 tons last year.)

The imports of wheat by rail, river and sea into ports show a fall of 48 per cent (52,000 tons as against 100,300 tons last year) due mainly to smaller exports from the United Provinces and the Central Provinces and Berar. The decrease of 47 per cent (331,900 bales as against 629,400 bales last year) in the imports of raw cotton is accounted for by smaller exports mainly from the Bombay Presidency. The imports of rice (including paddy) show a decrease of 45 per cent (119,600 tons as against 216,900 tons last year) owing to smaller shipments from Burma. Arrivals of jute into Calcutta by rail, river and sea show a fall of 56 per cent (198,800 bales as against 452,400 bales last year) due mainly to smaller exports from Bengal.

NOTE.—400 lbs. are equivalent to 1 bale of cotton or jute
82⅔ lbs. are equivalent to 1 maund
1 maund of paddy is taken as equivalent to 26 seers of rice

It will be seen from Table IV (wheat, excluding wheat flour) that the principal sources of the imports in April 1915 were the United Provinces, the Central Provinces and Berar, the Punjab, Rajputana and Central India and Bombay. Table XI shows the exports out of India of wheat (including wheat flour) month by month during the last five years.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN APRIL 1916 AS COMPARED WITH THE PREVIOUS MONTH.

As compared with March 1916, the imports in April 1916 into the ports referred to above show (in round numbers) an increase of—

105 per cent in linseed.
(47,100 tons as against 22,900 tons previous month.)

57 per cent in rape and mustard seed.
(39,800 tons as against 25,300 tons previous month.)

36 per cent in gram and pulse.
(52,000 tons as against 38,300 tons previous month.)

30 per cent in tea.
(2,406,200 lbs. as against 1,847,700 lbs. previous month.)

18 per cent in wheat (excluding wheat flour).
(52,000 tons as against 44,100 tons previous month.)

(198,800 bales as against 370,100 bales previous month.)

35 per cent in raw cotton.
(331,900 bales as against 508,200 bales previous month.)

30 per cent in rice.
(119,600 tons as against 170,500 tons previous month.)

The Statistics for the month of April 1915 and 1916, together with those for March 1916 and April 1916, are summarised below :—
